COL. WM. MITCHELL TAKES WITNESS STAND

TO DEFEND HIS SENSATIONAL
CRITICISMS MADE

PRESENTS HUGE BOX CONTAIN-ING 800 POUNDS DOCUMENT-ARY EVIDENCE

TESTIFIES MAKING EXHAUSTIVE
INVESTIGATIONS IN FRENCH,
ENGLISH AIR POWER

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Washington, Nov. 23.—Col. William Mitchell took the stand before his jury of generals today to defend his sensational criticisms of the war and navy departments and deny the charges lodged against him by his superiors.

As Mitchell was called to the stand by Representative Frank R. Reid, Illinois, his counsel, two orderlies carried in a huge box containing Mitchell's 800 pounds of documentary evidence.

Reid began questioning Mitchell on his early service in the army. Mitchell sat in the witness chair with arms folded and had ready answers for all of Reid's inquiries.

The court room was packed and a long line of spectators who could not be accommodated formed outside the building.

Mitchell said he first learned to fly in 1916.

Touching on his world war experience, he read a letter he received from General Pershing shortly after the armistice. Pershing asked Mitchell to accept his "sincere congratulations for the successful air operations under your command."

Mitchell also read a number of citations from foreign governments. "Did you fly in the war?" Reid asked.

"I went into the air and over the lines every time I had the chance. I went over during all of the major engagements," Mitchell replied.

"Did you take an escort with you?"

"No, sir, I went alone and took the fastest plane I could get."

Before returning to this country after the war, Mitchell said he made exhaustive investigations in France and England into air power. He said he conferred with virtually all military experts.

"From my conversations and studies," Mitchell said, "I am positive that future conflicts between nations will be preceded by two things: intensive activity by submarines and air attacks on the nerve centers of hostile states."

"The army will not be called on the way it has been in the past because in the future it would only function in a slow, laborious fashion that would be costly in the way of lives lost."

"Have you made a number of recommendations for the good of the service?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have any been put into effect?"

"Very few."

At the present time, Mitchell said, the United States is in the hands of foreign governments when procurement of airplanes is considered.

Touching again on future wars, Mitchell said airplanes "would sweep by" anti-aircraft guns.

"Airplanes," he said, "would make faint attack after faint attack to confuse the anti-aircraft gun troops and the civilian population and then deliver a potent attack. Anti-aircraft guns in the future will be unable to detect airplanes at night because the planes will have silent motors."

"We must have some study made to arrange for the care of the civilian population in case this country is attacked from the air. We must determine how to feed them in case our supply cities are destroyed and provide shelter for them during air attacks."

Under questioning by Reid, Mitchell told the court of nearly 100 recommendations he had made for improving the service while serving as assistant chief of the air service, ranging from his well known policies to minor suggestions for changes.

Mitchell testified that it was possible to fly airplanes "without anybody in them." He said the army should make exhaustive studies of the pilotless plane and connect it with the aerial bomb.

"Pilotless planes have been flown," Mitchell said, "but not in this country."

SESSION IS NOT SENSATIONAL ONE

Washington, Nov. 23.—Colonel William Mitchell testified at his own court martial here today and submitted to cross examination in a session that was far less sensational than had been anticipated.

The flying colonel repeated many of his previous assertions but startled the court with a declaration that he was not professing to cite facts in his statements, but opinions.

Apart from this and some new theories of the future of air warfare

MENTS

In his letter Lewis further asks the president whether, if federal intervention is denied, the miners may not believe "that their own efforts in that direction may be considered justified."

Lewis, who is in Philadelphia, refused to explain this question.

Members of the anthracite operators' conference said today that they regarded the Lewis letter as clarifying a dual situation existing from the outset of the present anthracite controversy.

"If Sec. Kellogg's views truly represent the American spirit, then Oliver Cromwell, Patrick Henry and George Washington would all have been denied admission and Carl Schurz and Louis Kossuth would have been turned back at Ellis Island."

After pointing out that the countess was permitted to enter the country last year by former Sec. Hughes and that now Kellogg declines to make public his charges against her, the letter describes her as a follower of Kossuth who was officially welcomed by the secretary of state, Daniel Webster, as a national hero.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Finger prints are sending John Stanton to the gallows February 9th next year to pay the death penalty for the slaying of John Penny in Winnipeg December 19, 1922.

Penny was battered to death with a hammer. His murderer escaped and was at liberty for over thirty months. He was discovered in June of this year by finger print identification serving a short term on a prison farm in Indiana. He was brought back to Winnipeg, tried and convicted of the murder. Robbery was the motive for the crime.

Stanton is the first to be sentenced in a record-breaking murder docket at the winter assizes—10 charges of murder being listed. Three have been found guilty of manslaughter, one acquitted and others are yet to be tried.

LEWIS ASKS GOVERNMENT FOR INTERVENTION

PRESIDENT UNITED MINE WORKERS STIRS UP SOFT COAL FIELD

CHARGES SUCH OPERATORS WITH VIOLATING WAGE AGREEMENTS

New York, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Requesting in a letter to President Coolidge that the government intervene in the bituminous coal fields, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers has involved every union coal miner in the country in a wage controversy.

The anthracite miners are already on strike and Lewis' letter brings up the matter of conditions in the bituminous fields.

Lewis charged that various producers of soft coal were violating and repudiating the Jacksonville wage agreement which continued war time wages and working conditions in the union soft coal fields of Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia for three years from April 1, 1924.

In his letter Lewis further asks the president whether, if federal intervention is denied, the miners may not believe "that their own efforts in that direction may be considered justified."

Lewis, who is in Philadelphia, refused to explain this question.

Members of the anthracite operators' conference said today that they regarded the Lewis letter as clarifying a dual situation existing from the outset of the present anthracite controversy.

The victim was to deposit the money in the mail box of a downtown office. Marked money was left

KELLOGG TAKES FIRM STAND IN KAROLYI CASE

EXCLUDES HER FROM U. S. AS A DANGEROUS RADICAL

APPEAL OF HER COUNSEL TO PRES. COOLIDGE NETTLES SECRETARY OF STATE

Washington, (Nov. 23.—(UP)—Despite growing protest, Secretary of State Kellogg today stood by his decision excluding from the country as a dangerous radical Countess Karolyi, wife of Hungary's first president.

Appeal by the countess' counsel to President Coolidge to overrule Kellogg's unjust and un-American decision, made public today, angered but did not swerve the secretary. He appeared confident to friends that the president would refuse to intervene.

In appealing to the president, the Karolyi attorneys, including James F. Curtis, assistant secretary of the treasury under President Taft, said: "As you yourself said in Omaha, 'whatever tends to standardize the community to establish fixed and rigid modes of thought tends to fossilize society.'"

"If Sec. Kellogg's views truly represent the American spirit, then Oliver Cromwell, Patrick Henry and George Washington would all have been denied admission and Carl Schurz and Louis Kossuth would have been turned back at Ellis Island."

After pointing out that the countess was permitted to enter the country last year by former Sec. Hughes and that now Kellogg declines to make public his charges against her, the letter describes her as a follower of Kossuth who was officially welcomed by the secretary of state, Daniel Webster, as a national hero.

"She is a person of high character and attainments who holds liberal but not radical, political and social views," the letter states.

PINNED THREE HOURS UNDER CAR WRECKAGE

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Jack Lieberman, Minneapolis, pinned more than three hours under the wreckage of his light automobile at Little Rock, near here, early today, stretched himself when finally extricated, brushed off his clothes and explained apologetically to his rescuers, "Must have gone to sleep."

Lieberman was driving home before sunrise. At Little Rock he lost his fight against drowsiness and woke up to find his car overturned and himself a prisoner. In three hours one car passed he said, and that without offering assistance.

A passenger on an early morning train happened to look from the window as the engineer gave Little Rock a perfunctory look of recognition and observed Lieberman's plight. He notified St. Cloud authorities who hurried to the rescue.

Lieberman, still sleepy but unhurt, resumed his journey by rail.

When Peterson took the envelope he was captured after a short chase and readily confessed his plot. He told officials he had a number of other criminal ventures planned if his first was successful.

CABINET TOTTERED EVER SINCE ITS RECENT RE-BIRTH

STRONG MAN TO LEAD FRANCE HAS FAILED TO APPEAR

FOREIGN MINISTER BRIAND FAVORED TO HEAD NEXT CABINET

By A. L. BRADFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Paris, Nov. 23.—The Painleve cabinet, tottering ever since its rebirth a few short weeks ago, has fallen and France is in a deep quandary today as to selection of its successor.

The strong man who shall lead France out of her tangled and increasingly desperate financial situation has failed to appear so far.

Foreign Minister Briand, who is favorably regarded for his Locarno accomplishments and for his general political ability, is suggested by some as possessing the qualifications to head the next cabinet.

The cabinet resigned Sunday after the chamber, by 278 to 275, had defeated Article V of the Painleve financial project. This article foresaw a consultation of short term national bonds, or in lay language, a postponement of payment of about 40 milliard francs worth of these holdings which are liberally held by all ranks of the French. Earlier in the day there had been a vote favorable to the cabinet on this point, but a switch of communist votes turned the 28 majority for the cabinet on the first vote into a minority of three on the succeeding test.

Painleve took the decision dramatically. He had stood calmly awaiting the voting announcement and when President Herriot of the chamber, announced it, stalked out of the chamber with the ministers trailing him while socialists yelled "Vive la Republique" and the opposition retorted with "Vive la France."

PRES. DOUMERGUE ASKS BRIAND TO FORM CABINET

Paris, Nov. 23.—President Doumergue today called Foreign Minister Briand to the Elysee Palace and asked him to form a cabinet to replace the second Painleve cabinet, which resigned yesterday.

After Doumergue offered him the premiership, Briand agreed to make an attempt to get together a new cabinet. He was to give Doumergue tonight a reply on whether he could accomplish the task.

CLEANED SPARK PLUG, THEN LOST CASH AND DIAMOND

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—E. C. Eddlebreck, Minneapolis, is mumbling today about the "courtesy of the road." Three polite motorists stopped to offer assistance as he was cleaning a spark plug at the side of a road near here last night. There was nothing they could do, he told them. Whereupon one of the trio very courteously pressed a gun to his ribs while the second and third relieved him of $75 and a diamond.

The lunch was as good as it was pretty.

The musical numbers given by Miss Cora Rickard, accompanied by Miss Lorraine Morrison, Miss Geraldine Kiebler and Miss Mildred Skauge who so generously give of their time and art are always so much enjoyed that it is a foregone conclusion their names on a program will bring those who might otherwise have stayed at home. Those who came had a very pleasant social hour and made enough new contacts to pay them for coming out in the cold.

The committee, headed by Mrs. John Carlson, it to be thanked for their thought and effort in providing so pleasant an afternoon.

3RD VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM GIVEN

New Park Theatre, Brainerd, to Present One of the Biggest Bills Yet Offered

TUESDAY NIGHT, NOV. 24

Manager Hiller Notes Vaudeville Night is Drawing Large Attendance From Vicinity

The New Park theatre is offering its third vaudeville bill for next Tuesday night, November 24th. Manager Hiller says that this is to be the biggest bill yet offered. The picture for that night is to be "Crack O'Dawn" featuring an auto race and is filled with many thrills as only an auto race could be.

The shows given in the past have been well attended and as there are two shows in the evening—one at 7 and one at 9:15, and good seats will be available for all. People from the country and surrounding towns are becoming steady patrons, Crosby especially being well represented.

Mr. Hiller wishes to say that these vaudeville bills will continue so long as the patronage holds up. The first bill on the program is a strong, dramatic playlet presented by Mark Linder & Co., entitled "The Criminal" and from its description, it surpasses anything of its kind ever presented in this city in the line of vaudeville. There are nearly a dozen characters in the playlet, several of whom are impersonated in a remarkable manner by Mr. Linder, and the rest by the other two members of his company. The scene is located at police headquarters, two characters being a police captain and his assistant. An old man is held on a charge of murder and an illustration of the third degree is given.

Dixie Daisey, the "Red Pepper Stepper," impersonates a high brown character from the South with songs and piano novelty. She features a jazz cane dance in a fashion all her own.

Watkins Circus la Petite is presented by G. M. Watkins whose recent success with Mascot the human mind pony ranks Mr. Watkins as America's premier animal trainer. His act carries dogs and ponies, featuring a pony doing the Charleston, and Buckeye Boy, a beautiful greyhound.

Ed and Marie Dale present a singing and talking comedy skit they call "Matrimony a la Carte," deriving its title through a matrimonial agency. The act is full of comedy dialog and situations.

Almond and Hazel, a richly dressed couple, dance nicely and exchange a number of up to date jokes. The girl is especially good in a Spanish dance, while the man excels in a dance performed on ice skates.

Niagara Falls

The water that flows over Niagara has flowed from the four great lakes and the hundreds of rivers that flow into them, more than one-half of the fresh water of the world, according to one authority. The fact that evaporation and precipitation in the form of rain and snow are continually going on in the enormous areas of the Great Lakes region renders it unlikely that the Great lakes will ever be drained in this manner.

British Honored Sons of Benedict Arnold

Very little has been written of Arnold outside of his traitorous conduct in connection with the attempted surrender of West Point to the British, says the Dearborn Independent. Through a correspondence with Major Andre, Arnold, then commanding West Point, offered to surrender to the British; and to consummate the plan Arnold and Andre met at midnight on the shore of the Hudson September 21, 1780. The capture of Andre frustrated the scheme, and Arnold fled to the British sloop of war Vulture.

The British made him brigadier general and he fought the American army at Richmond, Portsmouth and New London, Conn. In December, 1781, he sailed for England with his family, who were pensioned by the British government. He received about $31,755 for his alleged losses in deserting the Americans. Failing to get a position in the army he was forced to take up the trade of merchant. He carried on trade with the West Indies, but returned to London in 1791.

War between France and England exposed his shipping to great risks and

Arnold on one occasion was captured by a French ship, but managed to escape. The British government still refused to give him active service in the army and he turned his attention to fitting out privateers against France to recover his lost fortune, but being unsuccessful, weighed down by private debts, and despised by America and the British empire, he sank into a state of acute melancholy, and died June 14, 1801, regretting, it is said, his treason.

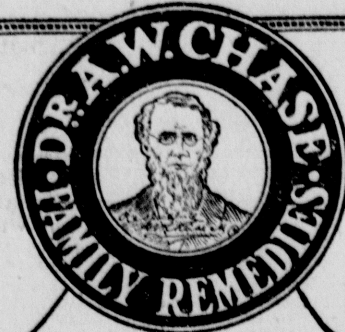

His first wife gave birth to three sons. His eldest sons received commissions in the British army; and his second son by his second marriage, inheriting his father's daring and military ability, rose to be a lieutenant general, was made aid de camp to King William IV and was created a knight. Arnold's other children held honorable positions, and one of his grandsons, Capt. William Traill Arnold, a brave fighting man, was killed in the Crimean war.

A pledge of fair dealing

The strongest pledge of friendship and fair dealing known to the early Norsemen was the simple act of one man placing his hand between the hands of another. Ruthless, terrible and cruel as the Vikings were, no man broke this pledge without forfeiting his honor and the friendship of every true man.

Today modern business forms friends in every corner of the world through the pledge of the printed word. Advertisements are pledges made especially for you . . . pledges that advertised goods you buy are exactly as claimed.

No sane business man would advertise an unworthy product. Nothing could bring ruin more quickly. For when a product is advertised, it invites the criticism of millions of people. It must make good its claims, or it forfeits the patronage of thousands.

A product that is not advertised may be worth buying. But it is little known and its merit or unworthiness lies hid in comparative security. Every product you see advertised must be worthy. It is tested daily by thousands. It is proved in the pitiless glare of publicity—pledged to you in the advertising columns regularly.

3RD VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM GIVEN

New Park Theatre, Brainerd, to Present One of the Biggest Bills Yet Offered

TUESDAY NIGHT, NOV. 24

Manager Hiller Notes Vaudeville Night is Drawing Large Attendance From Vicinity

The New Park theatre is offering its third vaudeville bill for next Tuesday night, November 24th. Manager Hiller says that this is to be the biggest bill yet offered. The picture for that night is to be "Crack O'Dawn" featuring an auto race and is filled with many thrills as only an auto race could be.

The shows given in the past have been well attended and as there are two shows in the evening—one at 7 and one at 9:15, and good seats will be available for all. People from the country and surrounding towns are becoming steady patrons, Crosby especially being well represented.

Mr. Hiller wishes to say that these vaudeville bills will continue so long as the patronage holds up.

The first bill on the program is a strong, dramatic playlet presented by Mark Linder & Co., entitled "The Criminal" and from its description, it surpasses anything of its kind ever presented in this city in the line of vaudeville. There are nearly a dozen characters in the playlet, several of whom are impersonated in a remarkable manner by Mr. Linder, and the rest by the other two members of his company. The scene is located at police headquarters, two characters being a police captain and his assistant. An old man is held on a charge of murder and an illustration of the third degree is given.

Dixie Daisey, the "Red Pepper Stepper," impersonates a high brown character from the South with songs and piano novelty. She features a jazz cane dance in a fashion all her own.

Watkins Circus la Petite is presented by G. M. Watkins whose recent success with Mascot the human mind pony ranks Mr. Watkins as America's premier animal trainer. His act carries dogs and ponies, featuring a pony doing the Charleston, and Buckeye Boy, a beautiful greyhound.

Ed. and Marie Dale present a singing and talking comedy skit they call "Matrimony a la Carte," deriving its title through a matrimonial agency. The act is full of comedy dialog and situations.

Almond and Hazel, a richly dressed couple, dance nicely and exchange a number of up to date jokes. The girl is especially good in a Spanish dance, while the man excels in a dance performed on ice skates.

R. R. WISE

THE death of R. R. Wise removes a public spirited man, one who did much in building up Brainerd and in later years broadened his efforts to include the whole state of Minnesota. He started alone in the world, and although of frail physique, made his way to success and fortune.

In his early railroading days he became a fast telegrapher and always treasured that knowledge and we have often seen him visit a telegraph office and send a few words just to show that his wrist and fingers had not lost their wire cunning.

He surmounted difficulties that would have disheartened the average man. His record of building in Brainerd attested the fact that he believed in Brainerd, that he believed in improvements and that he wasn't afraid to put his money into this town.

As a public hearted citizen one may mention his service, gratuitously given, in many capacities and these ranged from mayor to school board and later in publicity work for Northern Minnesota and then for the state at large.

He was a president of and assisted to found the Northern Minnesota Development Association and whenever it needed stimulus, he was at hand with money and other aid. He freely gave of his time to this association.

He assisted to gain many conventions for Brainerd. He was one of the founders of the 10,000 Lakes of Minnesota Association and three times its president. He brought rare business knowledge to this association and put it on a secure foundation. He traveled freely about the United States, donating time, money and his services to tell the world about our lakes, our summer resorts, our wonderful recreational facilities.

At the last large meeting of the Chamber of Commerce he outlined the work of this association. His wife died about three years ago and her loss was keenly felt by him. During her life she was his constant companion and aid and he sought her advice on many questions.

Death came to him peacefully, the message stating "he had slept away."

CHANGING TELEPHONE RATES

WE NOTE the order served on the city clerk in which the Northwestern Bell Telephone company asks to change and increase its rates for telephone service at the Brainerd Exchange. As the hearing is to be held at the court house in Brainerd on December 1, and conducted by the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, all parties affected will no doubt be given the opportunity to be heard.

The papers filed with our city clerk simply convey the information regarding the increases sought and affects business, residence and rural telephone rates. The biggest increase sought is in the individual business line, the new rate being $4.75 and the present old rate $3.50. A discount of 25 cents is allowed on all increased rates under conditions named.

The order states no reason why the increase in rates is sought, but that undoubtedly will have to be brought out at the hearing in order to convince the state railroad and warehouse commission that such an increase is necessary for the proper conduct of telephone business in Brainerd.

Some seven months ago THE DISPATCH published an article from the local telephone company which gave a forecast that increased rates were due in Brainerd, but stated no figures. It was claimed that in the past two years in Brainerd the earnings here were less than two per cent annually when they should have been at least six per cent. The company also claimed that material, labor and all other things entering into the telephone business had increased in costs.

SIMPLE LANGUAGE IS MOST EFFECTIVE

SIMPLE language is the most effective and the reason is clearly stated in a copyrighted article by Associated Editors, Inc., wherein they refer to the fact that simple language increases the sales from your advertisements.

"In every advertisement the language should be simple and clear. Dignified or infrequently used words and phrases should be avoided.

"'Horse' is much better than 'equestrian quadruped.' 'Eat' is preferable to 'masticate.' Simple, colloquial English is most easily understood by the largest number of readers.

"The text of an ad should be clear and simple enough so that the very ignorant can understand it. If the uneducated can understand the ad, you may be sure the more intelligent can, and then 100 per cent of your readers get the benefit of the advertisement. If only the educated can understand it, the number of readers who can benefit from your ad is greatly reduced and the sales from your ad are simultaneously reduced."

THE SINGLE STREET LIGHT

WARD HARRISON, director of illuminating engineering for the General Electric Co., favors a single street light.

He told St. Paul people that the cluster lights used on some of St. Paul's downtown streets are inadequate and should be supplanted by single lights of the same power at much less cost and upkeep.

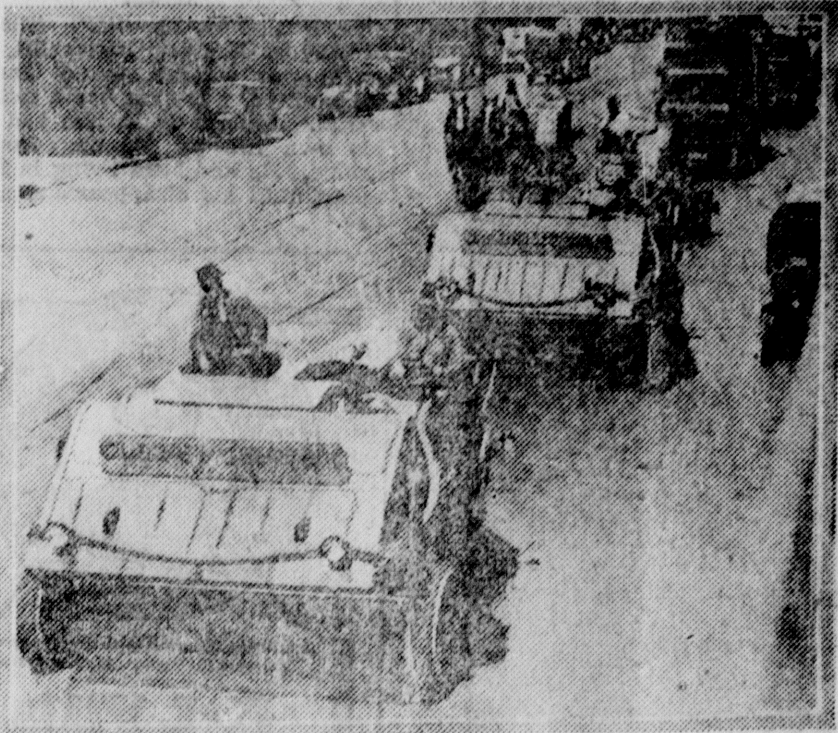

So Brainerd, with its single lights illuminating streets, is in the very forefront of municipal progress.

OLD Bob Fitzsimmons was a regular glutton for championships. From 1899 to 1907 he held three world's championships at the same time, middle, light-heavy and heavyweight. No man before or since has achieved such a record.

LEAVES of gold and nickel have been made by a German scientist so thin that it requires 2,500,000 of them to measure an inch in thickness. That man would make a fortune slicing ham sandwiches.

THE matter of auto "borrowing" without the owner's consent is a serious thing. The offense is punishable by a sentence of from one to 10 years.

Beef Bones for Ivory

There is a demand continually at the packing houses of Chicago for all the shin bones of slaughtered beefs. Chinese merchants take all they can secure, shipping them to China, where they are used in making mah-jongg sets. The workmen there are able to polish them so they appear quite as dignified as real ivory. Many shin bone sets were sold to American buyers.—Ohio State Journal.

Name Not a Guarantee

Do not be misled by the name on a violin, as it frequently happens that it is not the maker's name. If it is a well-known violin maker's name, it implies that the instrument is a model of his, made in the same style, but the name is not a guarantee that the fiddle is one of his own make.

R. R. WISE

THE death of R. R. Wise removes a public spirited man, one who did much in building up Brainerd and in later years broadened his efforts to include the whole state of Minnesota. He started alone in the world, and although of frail physique, made his way to success and fortune.

In his early railroading days he became a fast telegrapher and always treasured that knowledge and we have often seen him visit a telegraph office and send a few words just to show that his wrist and fingers had not lost their wire cunning.

He surmounted difficulties that would have disheartened the average man. His record of building in Brainerd attested the fact that he believed in Brainerd, that he believed in improvements and that he wasn't afraid to put his money into this town.

As a public hearted citizen one may mention his service, gratuitously given, in many capacities and these ranged from mayor to school board and later in publicity work for Northern Minnesota and then for the state at large.

He was a president of and assisted to found the Northern Minnesota Development Association and whenever it needed stimulus, he was at hand with money and other aid. He freely gave of his time to this association.

He assisted to gain many conventions for Brainerd. He was one of the founders of the 10,000 Lakes of Minnesota Association and three times its president. He brought rare business knowledge to this association and put it on a secure foundation. He traveled freely about the United States, donating time, money and his services to tell the world about our lakes, our summer resorts, our wonderful recreational facilities.

At the last large meeting of the Chamber of Commerce he outlined the work of this association. His wife died about three years ago and her loss was keenly felt by him. During her life she was his constant companion and aid and he sought her advice on many questions.

Death came to him peacefully, the message stating "he had slept away."

CHANGING TELEPHONE RATES

WE NOTE the order served on the city clerk in which the Northwestern Bell Telephone company asks to change and increase its rates for telephone service at the Brainerd Exchange. As the hearing is to be held at the court house in Brainerd on December 1, and conducted by the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, all parties affected will no doubt be given the opportunity to be heard.

The papers filed with our city clerk simply convey the information regarding the increases sought and affects business, residence and rural telephone rates. The biggest increase sought is in the individual business line, the new rate being $4.75 and the present old rate $3.50. A discount of 25 cents is allowed on all increased rates under conditions named.

The order states no reason why the increase in rates is sought, but that undoubtedly will have to be brought out at the hearing in order to convince the state railroad and warehouse commission that such an increase is necessary for the proper conduct of telephone business in Brainerd.

Some seven months ago THE DISPATCH published an article from the local telephone company which gave a forecast that increased rates were due in Brainerd, but stated no figures. It was claimed that in the past two years in Brainerd the earnings here were less than two per cent annually when they should have been at least six per cent. The company also claimed that material, labor and all other things entering into the telephone business had increased in costs.

SIMPLE LANGUAGE IS MOST EFFECTIVE

SIMPLE language is the most effective and the reason is clearly stated in a copyrighted article by Associated Editors, Inc., wherein they refer to the fact that simple language increases the sales from your advertisements.

"In every advertisement the language should be simple and clear. Dignified or infrequently used words and phrases should be avoided.

"Horse' is much better than 'equestrian quadruped.' 'Eat' is preferable to 'masticate.' Simple, colloquial English is most easily understood by the largest number of readers.

"The text of an ad should be clear and simple enough so that the very ignorant can understand it. If the uneducated can understand the ad, you may be sure the more intelligent can, and then 100 per cent of your readers get the benefit of the advertisement. If only the educated can understand it, the number of readers who can benefit from your ad is greatly reduced and the sales from your ad are simultaneously reduced."

THE SINGLE STREET LIGHT

WARD HARRISON, director of illuminating engineering for the General Electric Co., favors a single street light.

He told St. Paul people that the cluster lights used on some of St. Paul's downtown streets are inadequate and should be supplanted by single lights of the same power at much less cost and upkeep.

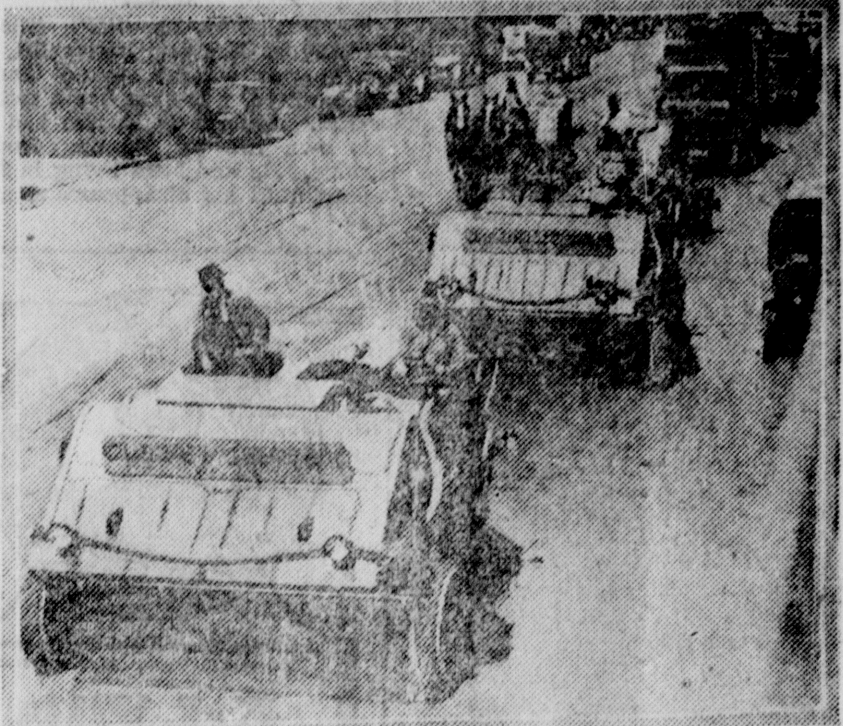

So Brainerd, with its single lights illuminating streets, is in the very forefront of municipal progress.

OLD Bob Fitzsimmons was a regular glutton for championships. From 1899 to 1907 he held three world's championships at the same time, middle, light-heavy and heavyweight. No man before or since has achieved such a record.

LEAVES of gold and nickel have been made by a German scientist so thin that it requires 2,500,000 of them to measure an inch in thickness. That man would make a fortune slicing ham sandwiches.

THE matter of auto "borrowing" without the owner's consent is a serious thing. The offense is punishable by a sentence of from one to 10 years.

Beef Bones for Ivory

There is a demand continually at the packing houses of Chicago for all the shin bones of slaughtered beefs. Chinese merchants take all they can secure, shipping them to China, where they are used in making mah-jongg sets. The workmen there are able to polish them so they appear quite as dignified as real ivory. Many shin bone sets were sold to American buyers.—Ohio State Journal.

Do not be misled by the name on a violin, as it frequently happens that it is not the maker's name. If it is a well-known violin maker's name, it implies that the instrument is a model of his, made in the same style, but the name is not a guarantee that the fiddle is one of his own make.

DON'T CARE IF ATTORNEY FOR

2 LETTERS WRITTEN BY PLAIN-
TIFF MAY REVEAL CHARAC-
TER IN NEW LIGHT

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 23.—Counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander today defied Lee Parsons Davis, attorney for the former Alice Jones, to "do his worst" in the annulment suit brought by the young aristocrat.

As soon as Isaac N. Mills, chief counsel for Rhinelander, had issued the def. Davis was granted an adjournment of a few minutes on the ground that he wished to decide whether to move that a mistrial be declared.

Rhinelander is asking annulment of his marriage on the grounds that Alice, the daughter of a negro taxi driver, deceived him as to her color. The challenge to "do your worst" is believed to refer to two letters written by Rhinelander to Alice which are reported to reveal the character of Rhinelander in a new light.

At the end of the five minutes Davis moved for a mistrial on the grounds that the statement by Mills in the presence of the jury was prejudicial to the defendant's case. The motion was denied and the trial proceeded with Rhinelander returning to the witness stand for cross examination.

Davis began the cross examination by asking more questions regarding Rhinelander's stay with his sweet-heart at the Hotel Marie Antoinette in New York two years before they were married.

A brief adjournment was taken during which Justice Morschauer ordered out of the court all women, warning them that the testimony was likely to be shocking.

UNPRINTABLE LETTER WAS INTRODUCED

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 23.—In the jury room of the Westchester county supreme court today Alice Jones Rhinelander undressed and with her body from the waist up and her lower limbs exposed was viewed by the jury trying her husband's suit for annulment.

Leonard Kip Rhinelander, who charges that his wife deceived him as to her color, Justice Morschauer, stenographers and opposing counsel, accompanied the girl, the daughter of a negro cab man, into the jury room.

Preceding this astounding development two letters written by Leonard to Alice were read in court. They described minutely pre-marital intimacies and Lee Parsons Davis, the defendant's counsel, hoped to prove by the color of her body that young Rhinelander could not but have suspected that she had negro blood in her veins.

Before the ugly intimacies of the mesalliance were read, Supreme Court Justice Morschauer ordered all women from his court. Mrs. Rhinelander and her mother withdrew with the others, leaving two newspaper women the sole representatives of their sex within the court room.

The first letter read was sent from the Cliff House, San Francisco, on July 11, 1922, after Leonard and Alice had stayed for two periods as man and wife at a New York hotel.

The epistle was affectionately couched. Leonard regretted that this would be the last letter Alice would receive for 'the Lord knows when.' He told her he would write her every day while on the steamer bound for Honolulu, which he was to take the next day.

MICHIGAN STRONGEST CONFERENCE TEAM

MINNESOTA FALLS TO SEVENTH PLACE IN LIST

NORTHWESTERN AND WISCONSIN STAND NEXT TO MICHIGAN

SOME DOPESTERS CLAIM NORTHWESTERN SHOULD RANK WITH MICHIGAN

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Out of a season of upsets and queer statistics, Michigan emerges as the strongest team in the Big Ten football conference and has the best claim to a title. Northwestern and Wisconsin finished their seasons with the next best records and some of the dopesters claim Northwestern has an equal claim with Michigan for the championship, this being based on the fact that Northwestern lost only one game and gave Michigan its only defeat.

On the basis of figures, however, Michigan stands pre-eminent with five victories and one defeat for a percentage of 83.3. Northwestern and Wisconsin each won three and lost one for a percentage of 75.0 but the Badgers played one more game and obtained a tie in that encounter.

Never before has this situation arisen in the Big Ten. On other occasions the leading team may have lost one game but that defeat has not been at the hands of the second best team. Northwestern partisans will argue that Michigan can't be given an edge on the Wildcats since Northwestern beat Michigan, but Wolverine enthusiasts will reply that Michigan played a tougher and longer schedule and piled up a total score of 227 against opponents' 3.

About the only answer to the puzzle is the list of accomplishments, from which anybody can pick his own champion. The standing follows:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Michigan	5	1	0	.833
Northwestern	3	1	0	.750
Wisconsin	3	1	1	.750
Illinois	2	2	0	.500
Iowa	2	2	0	.500
Chicago	2	2	1	.500
Minnesota	1	1	1	.500
Ohio	1	3	1	.250
Indiana	0	3	1	.000
Purdue	0	3	1	.000

As for individual performances, Red Grange continued the leading yardage far surpassed the greatest efforts of any other Big Ten athlete although his biggest field day was in the intersectional game with Pennsylvania.

Benny Friedman, Michigan's great back, was the highest point scorer with a total of 52, which were made by four touchdowns, two field goals, and 22 points after touchdowns. Nick Kutsch of Iowa was second with 49 points although he didn't score a point in the last month of the season, being kept on the sidelines most of the time. Oosterbaan of Michigan scored 48 points, Almqvist of Minnesota 45, and Grange 36. Molenda of Michigan tied Grange at that figure.

RED GRANGE NOW PROFESSIONAL IN GRID GAMES

WILL PLAY WITH CHICAGO BEARS UNTIL END OF THEIR SEASON

SUPPOSED TO GET $2,000 EACH GAME, AND PERCENTAGE OF GATE

By EDWARD C. DERR United Press Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Red Grange donned his business suit today—a head gear, shoulder pads, a jersey, breeches, socks and cleated shoes—and started his professional career in search of gold over chalk marked football fields.

The cheers of college football crowds still ringing in his ears, Red kept right on playing football, which he says, "is that field in which I have been most useful." He has signed a contract to play professional football with the Chicago Bears until the end of their season and then will go on a barnstorming tour with a team he is organizing himself.

Today Red got into his suit and went through signal drill with the Bears, acquainting himself with their style of play, and then was to make one more trip to Champaign where he will attend the annual Illinois football banquet tonight and receive his "I"—symbolic of his last year of collegiate football.

Red definitely ended his amateur career when he met his new manager, C. C. Pyle, in a downtown hotel yesterday and put his signature on a contract to play with the Bears.

The definite terms of the contract were not announced but it is understood he is to get $2,000 for each game in which he plays and a percentage of the gate receipts that will bring his income approximately $20,000 every time he plays.

Pyle, it is understood will get 25 per cent of all Grange's earnings.

Red's opening game as a professional will be played at Cubs park Thanksgiving day when his team meets the Chicago Cardinals. Next Sunday the Bears will play the Columbus Tigers at Cubs park. Then the east will get a chance to see Grange in action. His team will meet the Philadelphia Yellowjackets at Philadelphia on December 5 and the New York Giants at New York on December 6. The Bears will close the season in Chicago, December 13, meeting the New York Giants.

Then Red will take his own team which he is starting now to organize, to Miami, Fla., to meet Tim Callahan's team on Christmas day.

From there Red's team will go to Tampa, where they will meet another All-Star team on New Year's day. If games can be arranged the team will then hop out to the Pacific coast for several appearances.

After that Red will go into the movies if a satisfactory contract can be signed.

In announcing his new contract,

Grange said he had given every atom of strength he had for the University of Illinois and felt he had "discharged in part" his obligations to his alma mater.

"There remains undischarged, however, my obligations to my father," he said. "Possessed of a scant supply of this world's goods he has given me an opportunity for an education at a great sacrifice. It is to keep the home fires burning that I am turning to professional football."

Sporting Squibs

A permanent home for football coaches will be built by Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y.

It is reported that Jack Dempsey, upon his retirement from the ring, will go into the brokerage business.

Stanley (Bucky) Harris, manager of the Washington Americans, paid an income tax of $2,778.57 last year.

Every article of football attire of the University of Pennsylvania squad is specially fitted for each player.

The race course at Richmond, York-shire, one of the best known in England, is situated on the top of a high hill.

Battling Nelson staged the shortest prize fight on record when he knocked out William Rossier in two seconds, April 5, 1902.

Three hundred and thirty-five home runs were hit in the National league last year. In the American league there were 230.

The United States Football association has received entries from 101 soccer clubs for the national challenge cup competition.

Uncle Sam's split on the 1925 world's series amounts to $118,285, according to the figures made public by the internal revenue bureau.

Notre Dame, in South Bend, Ind.,

has not lost a football game on her home lot in 20 years. The last defeat was by Wabash, on October 21, 1905.

Pensacola voters authorized a $100,000 18-hole golf course at the Osceola club. It will be a boon to the sport already popular along the Florida coast.

Dan O'Leary, the veteran pedestrian, now in his eighty-fifth year, has covered a total of 282,000 miles on foot during his career as an exponent of walking.

Golf players in Williamstown, Mass., are carrying shotguns to protect themselves from crows, which are stealing their golf balls. Every time you wing a crow it counts $5 a birdie.

Tokuka Moriwake has the distinction of being the first Japanese woman tennis player to participate in an American tournament. She recently competed in a meet in southern California.

MICHIGAN STRONGEST CONFERENCE TEAM

MINNESOTA FALLS TO SEVENTH PLACE IN LIST

NORTHWESTERN AND WISCONSIN STAND NEXT TO MICHIGAN

SOME DOPESTERS CLAIM NORTHWESTERN SHOULD RANK WITH MICHIGAN

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Out of a season of upsets and queer statistics, Michigan emerges as the strongest team in the Big Ten football conference and has the best claim to a title.

Northwestern and Wisconsin finished their seasons with the next best records and some of the dopesters claim Northwestern has an equal claim with Michigan for the championship, this being based on the fact that Northwestern lost only one game and gave Michigan its only defeat.

On the basis of figures, however, Michigan stands pre-eminent with five victories and one defeat for a percentage of 83.3. Northwestern and Wisconsin each won three and lost one for a percentage of 75.0 but the Badgers played one more game and obtained a tie in that encounter.

Never before has this situation arisen in the Big Ten. On other occasions the leading team may have lost one game but that defeat has not been at the hands of the second best team. Northwestern partisans will argue that Michigan can't be given an edge on the Wildcats since Northwestern beat Michigan, but Wolverine enthusiasts will reply that Michigan played a tougher and longer schedule and piled up a total score of 227 against opponents' 3.

About the only answer to the puzzle is the list of accomplishments, from which anybody can pick his own champion. The standing follows:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Michigan	5	1	0	.833
Northwestern	3	1	0	.750
Wisconsin	3	1	1	.750
Illinois	2	2	0	.500
Iowa	2	2	0	.500
Chicago	2	2	1	.500
Minnesota	1	1	1	.500
Ohio	1	3	1	.250
Indiana	0	3	1	.000
Purdue	0	3	1	.000

As for individual performances, Red Grange continued the leading player of the conference. His total yardage far surpassed the greatest efforts of any other Big Ten athlete although his biggest field day was in the intersectional game with Pennsylvania.

Benny Friedman, Michigan's great back, was the highest point scorer with a total of 52, which were made by four touchdowns, two field goals, and 22 points after touchdowns. Nick Kutsch of Iowa was second with 49 points although he didn't score a point in the last month of the season, being kept on the sidelines most of the time. Oosterbaan of Michigan scored 48 points, Almqvist of Minnesota 45, and Grange 36. Molenda of Michigan tied Grange at that figure.

R. R. WISE HAS PASSED AWAY

Well Known Citizen of Brainerd Succumbed to Heart Trouble Sunday Afternoon

AT SHAKOPEE SANATORIUM

Owned Large Hotel And Realty Interests in Brainerd And Fargo, N. D.

R. R. Wise, age about 74, died at Shakopee hospital on Sunday afternoon at Mudeura sanatorium, where he had gone annually to take the baths. He is believed to have succumbed to heart trouble.

Mr. Wise left here Thursday afternoon for the twin cities, where he was met by his nephew, R. R. Gould. They spent a couple of days there and Mr. Wise decided to go to Shakopee for a few treatments. Mr. Gould accompanied him to Shakopee, stayed with him for his first treatment and returned home Saturday night. Sunday evening about 7 o'clock, Mrs. Darwin C. Gray, a niece of Mr. Wise, received a telegram from Shakopee advising her, "Mr. Wise, your uncle, slept away this afternoon."

He was born in New York state where he began his early life as a railroad telegrapher, achieving much depot experience and becoming a very fast operator. He later removed to Minnekauk, N. D., where he operated a hotel. This hotel not being a paying proposition and Brainerd at this time, about 1882, being without hotel accommodations, the Northern Pacific Railway Company induced Mr. Wise to tear down his hotel there and remove the same to this city, the offering to move it here on their railroad almost free gratis. In the dead of winter, Mr. Wise tore down his hotel at Minnekauk, marked every board, shipped it to Brainerd, brick veneered it, and commenced operating it under the name of "Arlington Hotel." He conducted this hotel for many years, after which he built the Ransford block and operated the Ransford hotel therein. At the time he operated the Arlington hotel, he was conducting railway eating houses at Hinckley, Staples, Carleton and Fargo at which places he did an enormous business.

Mr. Wise was a large holder of real estate in this city, as well as other places. He owns the Ransford hotel, Ransford Annex, Iron Exchange building, National hotel building, Anna block, Ohio block, 10,000 Lakes garage building, Service Motor Company building in this city and the Waldorf hotel in Fargo, N. D. He also owns the Wise ranch on North Long lake, which is composed of about 3,000 acres, together with a large amount of mining and other lands.

He was a former mayor of Brainerd, former president of the school board, former president of Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, former president of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and president three terms of the 10,000 Lakes of Minnesota association.

As such executive he gave his most untiring energies and time to the advertising of Minnesota's resources as a summer resort playground, speaking and traveling throughout the United States. He was one of the founders of this association.

He was a member of the following Masonic orders: Crescent Lodge No. 297 of Staples; Brainerd Chapter No. 42 Ascalon Commandery No. 16 and Osmond Shrine of St. Paul. He also belonged to the Elks Brainerd Lodge No. 615.

Mr. Wise's wife preceded him in death a few years ago. The surviving relatives in this city are a niece, Mrs. Darwin C. Gray and nephew, R. R. Gould. There are also distant relatives whose names could not be learned at this time.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed at this time owing to the absence of Mr. Gould, but they will be announced later.

The body of Mr. Wise is expected in Brainerd tonight, being accompanied from the twin cities by an escort of Knights Templar. The funeral, it has been ascertained, will be held under Ascalon Commandery auspices. The body will be brought to room 36, of the Ransford hotel.

EXAMINATION RENEWED

Post Office Department Desires Senior Stenographer And Typist in Field Service

Because of the very limited and insufficient eligible registers obtained from the post office senior stenographer and typist examination held in this district on October 27th, and as the commission has also a similar departmental examination pending to close the 28th instant, the commission directs that another examination for both senior stenographer and senior typist be also held for the field service in this district at the same time.

However, as the closing date for the departmental examination is the 28th, it will be possible under the exceptional circumstances to extend the closing date for the field examination to November 30th.

In view of the short time and the impossibility in many cases of obtaining and filing applications, the commission will accept in lieu of applications, letters from any persons stating their wish to enter the examination subject to their filing their applications as soon afterwards as possible, but before the examination date which will probably be December 8th. All such letters stating desire or intention to enter the examination should be addressed to Eighth District Secretary, Post Office building, St. Paul, Minn., and must be received there by November 30th to be followed by the applications before December 8th.

For application blanks and any further information about this or other examinations inquire of the local secretary at the post office.

R. R. WISE HAS PASSED AWAY

Well Known Citizen of Brainerd Succumbed to Heart Trouble Sunday Afternoon

AT SHAKOPEE SANATORIUM

Owned Large Hotel and Realty Interests in Brainerd and Fargo, N. D.

R. R. Wise, age about 74, died at Shakopee hospital on Sunday afternoon at Mudcura sanatorium, where he had gone annually to take the baths. He is believed to have succumbed to heart trouble.

Mr. Wise left here Thursday afternoon for the twin cities, where he was met by his nephew, R. R. Gould. They spent a couple of days there and Mr. Wise decided to go to Shakopee for a few treatments. Mr. Gould accompanied him to Shakopee, stayed with him for his first treatment and returned home Saturday night. Sunday evening about 7 o'clock, Mrs. Darwin C. Gray, a niece of Mr. Wise, received a telegram from Shakopee advising her, "Mr. Wise, your uncle, slept away this afternoon."

He was born in New York state where he began his early life as a railroad telegrapher, achieving much depot experience and becoming a very fast operator. He later removed to Minnewaukan, N. D., where he operated a hotel. This hotel not being a paying proposition and Brainerd at this time, about 1882, being without hotel accommodations, the Northern Pacific Railway Company induced Mr. Wise to tear down his hotel there and remove the same to this city, they offering to move it here on their railroad almost free gratis. In the dead of winter, Mr. Wise tore down his hotel at Minnewaukan, marked every board, shipped it to Brainerd, brick veneered it, and commenced operating it under the name of "Arlington Hotel." He conducted this hotel for many years, after which he built the Ransford block and operated the Ransford hotel therein. At the time he operated the Arlington hotel, he was conducting railway eating houses at Hinckley, Staples, Carleton and Fargo at which places he did an enormous business.

Mr. Wise was a large holder of real estate in this city, as well as other places. He owns the Ransford hotel, Ransford Annex, Iron Exchange building, National hotel building, Anna block, Ohio block, 10,000 Lakes garage building, Service Motor Company building in this city and the Waldorf hotel in Fargo, N. D. He also owns the Wise ranch on North Long lake, which is composed of about 3,000 acres, together with a large amount of mining and other lands.

He was a former mayor of Brainerd, former president of the school board, former president of Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, former president of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and president three terms of the 10,000 Lakes of Minnesota association.

As such executive he gave his most untiring energies and time to the advertising of Minnesota's resources as a summer resort playground, speaking and traveling throughout the United States. He was one of the founders of this association.

He was a member of the following Masonic orders: Crescent Lodge No. 207 of Staples; Braithard Chapter No. 42 Ascalon Commandery No. 16 and Osmund Shrine of St. Paul. He also belonged to the Elks Brainerd Lodge No. 615.

Mr. Wise's wife preceded him in death a few years ago. The surviving relatives in this city are a niece, Mrs. Darwin C. Gray and nephew, R. R. Gould. There are also distant relatives whose names could not be learned at this time.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed at this time owing to the absence of Mr. Gould, but they will be announced later.

The body of Mr. Wise is expected in Brainerd tonight, being accompanied from the twin cities by an escort of Knights Templar. The funeral, it has been ascertained, will be held under Ascalon Commandery auspices. The body will be brought to room 26, of the Ransford hotel.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT

John And E. R. Lasher Given Preliminary Hearing on Liquor Charge

Saturday afternoon, at 4:30 John and E. R. Lasher were given a preliminary hearing before Judge S. F. Alderman in municipal court. They were charged with transporting intoxicating liquor upon a public highway. They were bound over to the district court and bonds set at $500.

Thorvald Hanson and Elmer Solem, both from North Dakota and driving a Star car and the Lashers driving a Ford touring car collided about one-half mile this side of the Crow Wing-Cass county line last Friday night. Both cars were quite badly damaged, the Ford touring car turning turtle. The Lashers called for help and the two Dakota men helped them out from under their car. When the men crawled out from under the car, according to testimony given at the hearing, they carried a jug which they said was a water jug which they threw in a ditch along with a glass jug. The sheriff went out later on and found the Ford touring car still upside down and also found the stone jug and a glass jug, it is alleged, both of which, he said, were found to contain moonshine whiskey. They also found a sack containing deer meat. The men were arrested early Saturday morning at their home near the village of Pillager.

They will be tried Tuesday morning, November 24th, at 10 o'clock on the charge of having deer meat in their possession in a closed season. In municipal court this morning Alfred Lyon plead guilty to the charge of transporting intoxicating liquor, to-wit: one gallon moonshine whiskey along Laurel street in this city, on Saturday, November 21st. He was fined $100 or 60 days in jail by Judge S. F. Alderman.

"THE LAST WORD" IS GIVEN TONIGHT

Has Its Premiere at the Local High School Auditorium

Mrs. Sumner T. McKnight, One of Authors, to be Present

Carlton Miles is considered one of the best dramatists in America and his favorable opinion on "The Last Word" means much. Brainerd gives the first presentation of the play and one of the co-authors, Mrs. Sumner McKnight will be here to witness its production. The Dispatch voices the need of a large attendance for tonight. A good "first night" means much in the dramatic world.

The following is a condensed account of the write-up by Carlton Miles, in Sunday's Minneapolis Journal, of "The Last Word," which will have its premiere tonight at the high school auditorium:

"Three Minneapolis women have written an amusing, satiric play in which male dominance is defeated by gentle female persistence. The authors—Mrs. Sumner T. McKnight, Mrs. R. T. Hargreaves and Mrs. R. C. Allison—disclaim any serious endeavor in the three-scene comedy, which they fittingly call "The Last Word" and which is to be given at the Metropolitan theatre on the evening of December 5, for the League of Women Voters. As we read this witty little play, however, it seemed to us the authors have made out a fairly strong case for their side in this humorous battle of the sexes, the more so because propaganda has been carefully excised. The title is not without significance.

Written in the pattern of "Milestones" or "Secrets" the play is divided into periods of time. Each of the scenes contains a proposal, a difference of opinion and an apparent acquiescence on the part of the girl to the wishes of her betrothed. To quote more would be to reveal too much.

EXAMINATION RENEWED

Post Office Department Desires Senior Stenographer And Typist in Field Service

Because of the very limited and insufficient eligible registers obtained from the post office senior stenographer and typist examination held in this district on October 27th, and as the commission has also a similar departmental examination pending to close the 28th instant, the commission directs that another examination for both senior stenographer and senior typist be also held for the field service in this district at the same time.

However, as the closing date for the departmental examination is the 28th, it will be possible under the exceptional circumstances to extend the closing date for the field examination to November 30th.

In view of the short time and the impossibility in many cases of obtaining and filing applications, the commission will accept in lieu of applications letters from any persons wishing their wish to enter the examination subject to their filing their applications as soon afterwards as possible, but before the examination date which will probably be December 8th. All such letters stating desire or intention to enter the examination should be addressed to Eighth District Secretary, Post Office building, St. Paul, Minn., and must be received there by November 30th to be followed by the applications before December 8th.

For application blanks and any further information about this or other examinations inquire of the local secretary at the post office.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR PASTOR

Members And Friends of Clara Lutheran Church Honor Rev. A. Samuelson And Family

Last Thursday evening, a surprise party was tendered Rev. August Samuelson and family by the members and friends of the Clara Lutheran church in the church parlors. This was given in appreciation of the faithful work that is done by Rev. Samuelson and his wife in the church of which he is pastor.

Rev. Samuelson is very diligent in his work, not only in the pulpit but in many things outside the church. He is at the head of 12 organizations, eight of them being in the church and all of them are thriving. One of these organizations is the Clara Lutheran Brotherhood which has become an important factor inside the congregation. Mrs. Samuelson supervises the church singing. She has an excellent choir, one ladies' chorus and a male chorus that are always ready and willing to assist. Special singing is furnished by these organizations at most services and they have assisted in different programs for the benefit of the church. The congregation was very willing and enthusiastic about giving Rev. Samuelson and his family much encouragement.

Rev. Thorene of Crosby gave a short talk. He also presented Rev. Samuelson with a handsome purse in behalf of the congregation.

A delicious lunch was served by the ladies of the congregation and much appreciation is expressed to each and everyone who helped to make this occasion such a success.

For no reason whatever the speaker broke into loud laughter; then, to further relieve his bubbling jousness, he began to hum a song. As he worked his song grew louder, until its words were audible to the girl in the next tent.

"Oh, la voix du beau Nord qui m'appelle,
Pour venir avec lui le jour,
Et desormais toute peine cruelle
Fuir devant mon chant d'amour.
D'amour, d'amour."

"Oh, the voice of the North is calling me,
To join in the praise of the day,
So whatever the fate that's befalling me,
I'll sing every sorrow away.
Away, away."

The Yukon stove was red-hot now, and Rouletta's tent was warm. She seated herself before a homely little dresser fashioned from two candle-boxes, and began to arrange her hair. Curiously she examined the comb and brush. They were, or had been, "Poleon's"; so was the pocket-mirror hanging by a safety-pin to the canvas wall above. Rouletta recalled with a smile the flourish of pride with which he had presented to her this ludicrous bureau and its fittings. Was there ever such a fellow as this Doret? Was there ever a heart so big, so kind? A strangerly it seemed to the girl that she had known him always. There had been days—days interminable—when he had seemed to be some dream figure; an indistinct, unreal being at once familiar and unfamiliar, friendly and forbidding; then other days during which he had gradually assumed substance and actuality and during which she had come to know him. Following her return to sanity, Rouletta had experienced periods of uncertainty and of terror, then hours of embarrassment, the mere memory of which caused her to shrink and to hide her head. Those were times of which, even yet, she could not bear to think. Hers had been a slow recovery and a painful, nay a tragic, awakening, but, as she had gained the strength and the ability to understand and to suffer, "Poleon" with a tact and a thoughtfulness unexpected in one of his sort, had dropped the character of nurse and assumed the role of friend and protector. That had been Rouletta's most difficult ordeal, the most trying time for both of them, in fact; not one man in ten thousand could have carried off such an awkward situation at a cost so low to a woman's feelings. It was, of course, the very awkwardness of that situation, together with "Poleon's" calm, courageous method of facing it, that had given his patient the strength to meet him half-way and that had made her convalescence anything less than a torture.

And the manner in which he had allowed her to learn the truth about herself—bit by bit as her resistance grew—his sympathy, his repression, his support! He had to know just how far to go; he had spared her every possible heartache, he had never permitted her to suffer a moment of trepidation as to herself. No, her first conscious feeling, now that she recalled it, had been one of implicit unreasoning faith in him. That confidence had increased with every hour; dismay, despair, the wish to die had given place to resignation, then to hope, and now to a brave self-confidence. Rouletta knew that her deliverance had been miraculous and that this man, this total stranger, out of the goodness of his heart, had given her back her life. She never ceased pondering over it.

She was now sitting motionless, comb and brush in hand, when "Poleon" came into the tent for a second time and aroused her from her abstraction. She hastily completed her toilette, and was sitting curled up on her bed when the aroma of boiling coffee and the sound of frying steak brought her to her feet. With a noisy clatter she enthusiastically arranged the breakfast dishes.

"How wonderful it is to have an appetite in the morning!" said she; then, "This is the last time you're going to cook. You may chop the wood and build the fires, but I shall attend to the rest. I'm quite able."

"Bien!" The pilot smiled his agreement. "Everybody must work to be happy—even dose dog. Wat you tink? Dey loaf so long dey begin fight, jus' lak people." He chuckled. "Pretty queeck we hilt her up de sled an' go fly to Dyea. You gon' henjoy dat, ma saeur. Mebbe we meet dose cheekacko' com'in' an' dey holler: 'Hollo, Frenchy! How's t'ing in Dawson?' an' we say: 'Pout! We don care 'bout Dawson; We goin' home.'"

"Home!" Rouletta paused momentarily in her task. "Sure! Now—voilà! Breakfast she serve in de baggage car." With a flourish he poured the coffee, saying, "Let's see if you so hongry lak you pretend, or if I'm gon' keep you in bed some more."

Rouletta's appetite was all—yes, more—than she had declared it to be. The liberality with which she helped herself to oatmeal, her lavish use of the sugar-pan, and her determined attack upon the can of "Carnation" satisfied any lingering doubts in Doret's mind. Her predatory interest in the appetizing contents of the frying-pan—she eyed it with the greedy hopefulness of a healthy urchin—also was eloquent of a complete recovery and brought a thrill of pride to her benefactor.

"Gosh! I mak' bad nurse for hospital," he grinned. "You eat him out of house an' lot." He finished his meal, then looked on until Rouletta leaned back with regretful satisfaction; thereupon he broke out: "Wal, I got more 'sprise for you."

"You—you can't surprise a fellow, and—I feel just like one. Isn't food good?" (To be continued)

"Black Cyclone" Is Film Novelty
Marvelously Entertaining at Lyceum
"Black Cyclone" is a picture that is causing a lot of talk—in fact, yesterday the Lyceum theatre was buzzing with appreciative comment during and after the showing of this astounding horse drama, in which Hal Roach features his magnificent wild stallion, Rex. When they weren't marveling over the intelligence of the horse, they were laughing over its several delightful humorous incidents, ah-ing and oh-ing over its beautiful scenery and splendid photography, and excited over its many thrills.

It remains at the Lyceum tonight only and is enthusiastically recommended to all.

La Rocque, Dorothy Gish, Torrence, Hackathorne Featured in "Night Life of New York"

"Night Life of New York," the new Allan Dwan-Paramount production, which comes to the Lyceum theatre on Tuesday to remain for two days, is based on an original story of metropolitan jazz and romance by Edgar Selwyn, the noted playwright and producer of stage plays. Rod La Rocque, Dorothy Gish, Ernest Torrence and George Hackathorne have featured roles in the cast.

From then on the fun and thrills come fast.

Early Landscape Gardening

The ancients practiced landscape gardening, but little is known about the styles in vogue among the different peoples. From the early times of the Christian era to the Thirteenth century the art was mainly practiced in the adornment of walled gardens connected with castles or convents. Lenoire was a celebrated French landscape gardener of the Seventeenth century.

URGENT SELLING ON WALL ST.

New York, Nov. 23.—Urgent selling again broke out late this afternoon after a good effort had been made to rally the market in the earlier hours. Speculative sentiment was still under the influence of apprehension over the possibility in the local rediscout rate and this uncertainty brought large offerings of the principal industrial stocks whenever they showed a disposition to rally.

Another factor which prevented the recovery was the development of a sustained rebound in the substantial amount of stock in impaired accounts awaiting liquidation on any show of strength. While this progress of correction was in progress constructive interests displayed a tendency to allow the market to take care of itself with the result that Steel, General Motors, Dupont, Chrysler and other leaders of the preceding advances were forced into new low ground on the reaction.

The market closed lower.

PICKING OUT ORIGIN OF FAMOUS PHRASES

Many, Thought New, Really Are Centuries Old.

"Why, it's just a bundle of quotations." So, rather disgustedly, a man, who had just seen "Hamlet" for the first time, summed up the play.

Other people, a little better informed, may murmur "Shakespeare" when a wise old saw is quoted. But there are many proverbs and phrases that are not so easily tracked down. Sometimes it has never occurred to us to wonder about their origin; sometimes we think we know who said or wrote them first, and are quite wrong.

One of the best examples of this is the great phrase, "Government of the people, by the people, and for the people." In the minds of many people it is identified with Lord Randolph Churchill and the Primrose league. Others, better informed, know that Lincoln used it at Gettysburg in 1863, and that it became a rallying cry for the North during the Civil war.

Seventy years before Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg, however, almost the same phrase had been used by Robespierre. And over four hundred years before that John Wyclif wrote in his preface to the first English translation of the Bible: "The Bible is for the government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Then there is the phrase inscribed on Keats' tombstone in Rome: "Here lies one whose name was writ in water." Most people think that the phrase is Keats' own, but it is really part of an old Arab proverb.

The more we go into this question of the origin of famous phrases and sayings the more fascinating we find it. And we get some amazing results. The ancients, we discover, were at times almost disconcertingly modern.

Who was it who first said "You have the ball at your feet"? This metaphor which conjures up a vision of the football field, is far older than football. Tacitus tells us that Agricola used these words in a speech to his soldiers before a battle with the Caledonians.

The great Latin historian also reports a speech made by one of the Caledonian chiefs to his soldiers. In this occurs another very familiar phrase: "Where they make a desert they call it peace." "The terrors of the unknown loom large," is another proverb we find in the "Agricola" of Tacitus, and in the "Germania" he talks of "Combining peace with honor."

Many a fine phrase, now so worn by usage that it is regarded as "hackneyed" is to be found in Chaucer. "He was as fresh as is the month of May" occurs in the prologue to the "Canterbury Tales." "To make vertu of necessitye," and "The god of love, a benedictie, how mighty and how greet a lord is he" in "The Knight's Tale." "Brown as a berry" and "Proud as a peacock" are two everyday similes we get from the same source.

Who was it that first coined the expressive phrase, "stark, staring mad"? It occurs in Rabelais' "Gargantua and Pantagruel," where it is coupled with "at his wit's end," but it is possible that it has been used by some earlier writer. The worst of tracking down quotations is that there is usually someone else who can go still further back than you can. "Short and sweet," and "as plain as a nose in a man's face," are also to be found in Rabelais.

The Climber

Prince Urey (George) Troubetzkoy said in an interview in New York: "In Europe they like to keep a man in his place, while over here you like to see a man rise—founding to errand boy, errand boy to manager, manager to millionaire and so forth."

"But in Europe! An English war veteran came from a war veterans' reunion the other night and said to his wife with a sneer: "I believe in push and ambition and all that there, but when Sergeant Todd with his peg leg takes to carryin' a cane instead of a crutch—well, it looks to me as if he was tryin' to climb out of the station what divine providence sunk him into."

Working in Stucco

Stucco work was known to the ancients and was much prized by them, particularly by the Romans who excelled in it. It was revived by D'Udine about the year 1550; and in Italy, France and England in the Eighteenth century.

WINDS OF CHANGE

For no reason whatever the speaker broke into loud laughter; then, to further relieve his bubbling joyousness, he began to hum a song. As he worked his song grew louder, until his words were audible to the girl in the next tent.

"Oh, la voix du beau Nord qui m'appelle.
Pour venir avec lui le jour.
Et desormais toute peine cruelle
Fuir devant mon chant d'amour.
D'amour, d'amour."

"Oh, the voice of the North is calling me,
To join in the praise of the day,
So whatever the fate that's befalling me,
I'll sing every sorrow away.
Away, away."

The Yukon stove was red-hot now, and Rouletta Kirby's tent was warm. She seated herself before a homely little dresser fashioned from two candle-boxes, and began to arrange her hair. Curiously she examined the comb and brush. They were, or had been, 'Poleon's'; so was the pocket-mirror hanging by a safety-pin to the canvas wall above. Rouletta recalled with a smile the flourish of pride with which he had presented to her this ludicrous bazaar and its fittings. Was there ever such a fellow as this Doret? Was there ever a heart so big, so kind? A stranger, it seemed to the girl that she had known him always. There had been days—days interminable—when he had seemed to be some dream figure; an indistinct, unreal being at once familiar and unfamiliar, friendly and forbidding; then other days during which he had gradually assumed substance and actuality and during which she had come to know him. Following her return to sanity, Rouletta had experienced periods of uncertainty and of terror, then hours of embarrassment, the mere memory of which caused her to shrink and to hide her head. Those were times of which, even yet, she could not bear to think. Hers had been a slow recovery and a painful, nay a tragic, awakening, but, as she had gained the strength and the ability to understand and to suffer, 'Poleon' with a tact and a thoughtfulness unexpected in one of his sort, had dropped the character of nurse and assumed the role of friend and protector. That had been Rouletta's most difficult ordeal, the most trying time for both of them, in fact; not one man in ten thousand could have carried off such an awkward situation at a cost so low to a woman's feelings. It was, of course, the very awkwardness of that situation, together with 'Poleon's' calm, courageous method of facing it, that had given him the strength to meet him half-way and, that had made her convalescence anything less than a torture.

And the manner in which he had allowed her to learn the truth about herself—bit by bit as her resistance grew—his sympathy, his repression, his support! He had to know just how far to go; he had spared her every possible heartache, he had never permitted her to suffer a moment of repudiation as to herself. No, her first conscious feeling, now that she recalled it, had been one of implicit unreasoning faith in him. That confidence had increased with every hour; dismay, despair, the wish to die had given place to resignation, then to hope, and now to a brave self-confidence. Rouletta knew that her deliverance had been miraculous and that this man, this mortal stranger, out of the goodness of his heart, had given her back her life. She never ceased pondering over it.

She was now sitting motionless, comb and brush in hand, when 'Poleon' came into the tent for a second time and aroused her from her abstraction. She hastily completed her toilette, and was sitting curled up on her bed when the aroma of boiling coffee and the sound of frying steak brought her to her feet. With a noisy clatter she enthusiastically arranged the breakfast dishes.

"How wonderful it is to have an appetite in the morning!" said she; then: "This is the last time you're going to cook. You may chop the wood and build the fire, but I shall attend to the rest. I'm quite able."

"Bien!" The pilot smiled his agreement. "Everybody must work to be happy—even dogs. What you think? Dey loaf so long dey begin fight, jus' lak people." He chuckled. "Pretty queeck we hitch her up de sled an' go fly to Dyea. You gon' henjoy dat, ma saeur. Mebbe we meet dose cheeckako' com'in' an' dey holler: 'Hollo, Frenchy! How's t'ing in Dawson?' an' we say: 'Pout! We don care 'bout Dawson; We gon' home!'"

"Home!" Rouletta paused momentarily in her task.

"Sure! Now—voilà! Breakfast she serve in de baggage car." With a flourish he poured the coffee, saying, "Let's see if you go hongry lak you pretend, or if I'm goin' keep you in bed some more."

Rouletta's appetite was all—yes, more—than she had declared it to be. The liberality with which she helped herself to oatmeal, her lavish use of the sugar-spoon, and her determined attack upon the can of 'Carnation' satisfied any lingering doubts in Doret's mind. Her predatory interest in the appetizing contents of the frying-pan—she eyed it with the greedy hopefulness of a healthy urchin—also was eloquent of a complete recovery and brought a thrill of pride to her benefactor.

"Gosh! I mak' bad nurse for hospital," he grinned. "You eat him out of house an' lot." He finished his meal, then looked on until Rouletta leaned back with regretful satisfaction; thereupon he broke out:

"Wal, I got more s'prise for you."

"You—you can't surprise a toad, and—I feel just like one. Isn't food good?"

"Black Cyclone" Is Film Novelty
Marvelously Entertaining at Lyceum
"Black Cyclone" is a picture that is causing a lot of talk—in fact, yesterday the Lyceum theatre was buzzing with appreciative comment during and after the showing of this astounding horse drama, in which Hal Roach features his magnificent wild stallion, Rex. When they weren't marveling over the intelligence of the horse, they were laughing over its several delightful humorous incidents, ah-ing and oh-ing over its beautiful scenery and splendid photography, and excited over its many thrills.

It remains at the Lyceum tonight only and is enthusiastically recommended to all.

La Roque, Dorothy Gish, Torrence, Hackathorne Featured in 'Night Life of New York'

Night Life of New York, the new Allan Dwan-Paramount production, which comes to the Lyceum theatre on Tuesday to remain for two days, is based on an original story of metropolitan jazz and romance by Edgar Selwyn, the noted playwright and producer of stage plays. Rod La Roque, Dorothy Gish, Ernest Torrence and George Hackathorne have featured roles in the cast.

From then on the fun and thrills come fast.

Early Landscape Gardening

The ancients practiced landscape gardening, but little is known about the styles in vogue among the different peoples. From the early times of the Christian era to the Thirteenth century the art was mainly practiced in the adornment of walled gardens connected with castles or convents. Landscape was a celebrated French landscape gardener of the Seventeenth century.

URGENT SELLING ON WALL ST.

New York, Nov. 23.—Urgent selling again broke out late this afternoon after a good effort had been made to rally the market in the earlier hours. Speculative sentiment was still under the influence of apprehension over the possibility in the local rediscount rate and this uncertainty brought large offerings of the principal industrial stocks whenever they showed a disposition to rally.

Another factor which prevented the everywhere are recommending.

development of a sustained rebound was the substantial amount of stock in impaired accounts awaiting liquidation on any show of strength. While this progress of correction was in progress constructive interests displayed a tendency to allow the market to take care of itself with the result that Steel, General Motors, Dupont, Chrysler and other leaders of the preceding advances were forced into new low ground on the reaction.

The market closed lower.

PICKING OUT ORIGIN OF FAMOUS PHRASES

Many, Thought New, Really Are Centuries Old.

"Why, it's just a bundle of quotations." So, rather disgustedly, a man, who had just seen "Hamlet" for the first time, summed up the play.

Other people, a little better informed, may murmur "Shakespeare" when a wise old saw is quoted. But there are many proverbs and phrases that are not so easily tracked down. Sometimes it has never occurred to us to wonder about their origin; sometimes we think we know who said or wrote them first, and are quite wrong.

One of the best examples of this is the great phrase, "Government of the people, by the people, and for the people." In the minds of many people it is identified with Lord Randolph Churchill and the Primrose League. Others, better informed, know that Lincoln used it at Gettysburg in 1863, and that it became a rallying cry for the North during the Civil war.

Seventy years before Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg, however, almost the same phrase had been used by Robespierre. And over four hundred years before that John Wyclif wrote in his preface to the first English translation of the Bible: "The Bible is for the government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Then there is the phrase inscribed on Keats' tombstone in Rome: "Here lies one whose name was writ in water." Most people think that the phrase is Keats' own, but it is really part of an old Arab proverb.

The more we go into this question of the origin of famous phrases and sayings the more fascinating we find it. And we get some amazing results. The ancients, we discover, were at times almost disconcertingly modern.

Who was it who first said "You have the ball at your feet"? This metaphor which conjures up a vision of the football field, is far older than football. Tacitus tells us that Agricola used these words in a speech to his soldiers before a battle with the Caledonians.

The great Latin historian also reports a speech made by one of the Caledonian chiefs to his soldiers. In this occurs another very familiar phrase: "Where they make a desert they call it peace." "The terrors of the unknown loom large," is another proverb we find in the "Agricola" of Tacitus, and in the "Germania" he talks of "Combining peace with honor."

Many a fine phrase, now so worn by usage that it is regarded as "hackneyed" is to be found in Chaucer. "He was as fresh as is the month of May" occurs in the prologue to the "Canterbury Tales." "To make virtue of necessity," and "The god of love, a benedictio, how mighty and how great a lord is he" in "The Knight's Tale." "Brown as a berry" and "Proud as a peacock" are two everyday similes we get from the same source.

Who was it that first coined the expressive phrase, "stark, staring mad"? It occurs in Rabelais' "Gargantua and Pantagruel," where it is coupled with "at his wit's end," but it is possible that it has been used by some earlier writer. The worst of tracking down quotations is that there is usually someone else who can go still further back than you can. "Short and sweet," and "as plain as a nose in a man's face," are also to be found in Rabelais.

The Climber

Prince Urey (George) Troubetzkoy said in an interview in New York: "In Europe they like to keep a man in his place, while over here you like to see a man rise—founding to errand boy, errand boy to manager, manager to millionaire and so forth."

"But in Europe! An English war veteran came from a war veterans' reunion the other night and said to his wife with a sneer:

"I believe in push and ambition and all that there, but when Sergeant Todd with his peg leg takes to carrying a cane instead of a crutch—well, it looks to me as if he was trying to climb out of the station what divine providence sunk him into."

Working in Stucco

Stucco work was known to the ancients and was much prized by them, particularly by the Romans who excelled in it. It was revived by D'Udine some time the year 1550; and in Italy, France and England in the Eighteenth century.

COL. WM. MITCHELL TAKES WITNESS STAND

TO DEFEND HIS SENSATIONAL CRITICISMS MADE

PRESENTS HUGE BOX CONTAINING 800 POUNDS DOCUMENTARY EVIDENCE

TESTIFIES MAKING EXHAUSTIVE INVESTIGATIONS IN FRENCH, ENGLISH AIR POWER

By WILLIAM J. McEVROY
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Washington, Nov. 23.—Col. William Mitchell took the stand before his jury of generals today to defend his sensational criticisms of the war and navy departments and deny the charges lodged against him by his superiors.

As Mitchell was called to the stand by Representative Frank R. Reid, Illinois, his counsel, two orderlies carried in a huge box containing Mitchell's 800 pounds of documentary evidence.

Reid began questioning Mitchell on his early service in the army. Mitchell sat in the witness chair with arms folded and had ready answers for all of Reid's inquiries.

The court room was packed and a long line of spectators who could not be accommodated formed outside the building.

Mitchell said he first learned to fly in 1916.

Touching on his world war experience, he read a letter he received from General Pershing shortly after the armistice. Pershing asked Mitchell to accept his "sincere congratulations for the successful air operations under your command."

Mitchell also read a number of citations from foreign governments. "Did you fly in the war?" Reid asked.

"I went into the air and over the lines every time I had the chance. I went over during all of the major engagements," Mitchell replied.

"Did you take an escort with you?"

"No, sir. I went alone and took the fastest plane I could get."

Before returning to this country after the war, Mitchell said he made exhaustive investigations in France and England into air power. He said he conferred with virtually all military experts.

"From my conversations and studies," Mitchell said, "I am positive that future conflicts between nations will be preceded by two things: 'Intensive activity by submarines and air attacks on the nerve centers of hostile states.'

"The army will not be called on the way it has been in the past because in the future it would only function in a slow, laborious fashion that would be costly in the way of lives lost."

"Have you made a number of recommendations for the good of the service?"

"Yes, sir."

"Have any been put into effect?"

"Very few."

At the present time, Mitchell said, the United States is in the hands of foreign governments when procurement of airplanes is considered.

Touching again on future wars, Mitchell said airplanes "would sweep by" anti-aircraft guns.

"Airplanes," he said, "would make feint attack after feint attack to confuse the anti-aircraft gun troops and the civilian population and then deliver a potent attack."

Anti-aircraft guns in the future will be unable to detect airplanes at night because the planes will have silent motors.

"We must have some study made to arrange for the care of the civilian population in case this country is attacked from the air. We must determine how to feed them in case our supply cities are destroyed and provide shelter for them during air attacks."

Under questioning by Reid, Mitchell told the court of nearly 100 recommendations he had made for improving the service while serving as assistant chief of the air service, ranging from his well known policies to minor suggestions for changes.

Mitchell testified that it was possible to fly airplanes "without anybody in them." He said the army should make exhaustive studies of the pilotless plane and connect it with the aerial bomb.

"Pilotless planes have been flown," Mitchell said, "but not in this country."

SESSION IS NOT SENSATIONAL ONE

Washington, Nov. 23.—Colonel William Mitchell testified at his own court martial here today and submitted to cross examination in a session that was far less sensational than had been anticipated.

The flying colonel repeated many of his previous assertions but startled the court with a declaration that he was not professing to cite facts in his statements, but opinions.

Apart from this and some new theories of the future of air warfare

ACCIDENTALLY WOUNDED HIS PAL; FLEES FROM HOME

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Frank Johnson, 14, who accidentally wounded a hunting companion last week, was missing today, a self-conceived fugitive from justice.

After summoning a farmer to take his friend to a hospital, the Johnson lad disappeared. Until last yesterday his absence went unnoticed, his parents believing he was at the Graves home, and Charles' parents assuming he had returned to his own home.

A frantic search led by M. M. Johnson, Frank's wealthy father, was under way today. Mrs. Johnson was reported near collapse from anxiety. Frank is five feet two inches tall, has brown hair and blue eyes, and wore hunting boots and a Boy Scout uniform when last seen.

CHICAGO'S WAR ON CRIME IS RENEWED TODAY

WEEK END OF MURDERS, BOMBING, LOOP HOLDUPS, ROBBERIES

LATEST OUTRAGE WAS MAN KILLED TESTIFYING AT CORONER'S INQUEST

Chicago, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Chicago's war on crime was renewed with vigor today, following a week-end of murders, bombings, loop holdups and robberies.

State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe brought the war down to a definite focus when he ordered the grand jury to look into the circumstances surrounding the death of John Minatti who was killed while he was testifying at a coroner's inquest Saturday.

"The personnel of that coroner's jury," Crowe said, "was of such a character as to offer to the public a definite though incidental reason why the machinery of Cook county does not function."

During the week end, four bombings occurred, a street car and drug store was robbed, two holdups occurred on the same corner, and a loop office was robbed of $12,000.

DRIVER AND GUARD WOUNDED BY BANDIT GANG

MINNEAPOLIS STREET RAILWAY CO. COLLECTION CAR ATTACKED

STREET RAILWAY MEN OPEN FIRE ON THE BANDITS

Minneapolis, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—The driver and guard of the Minneapolis Street Railway company's collection car, wounded yesterday when they frustrated an attempted robbery, were reported out of danger at a hospital here today.

John Lund, the driver, and Fred Develin, the guard, saved between $3,000 and $4,000 in collections by opening fire on the bandits who met them at the loading platform as they drove up with the money.

Five bandits participated in the well planned hold-up. Three gained admittance to the company building by representing themselves as employees. They bound two men and waited at the loading platform for the collection car.

As the car approached, Develin failed to recognize the figure on the platform and opened fire. He was wounded twice. Lund, shot in the shoulder, ran to a taxicab stand for help. The bandits fled in an automobile.

The company has offered a $1,000 reward for information leading to arrest of the robbers. Both of the injured employees have worked for the railway company more than 20 years.

SAYS EARNINGS OF RAILROADS IN MINNESOTA LOW

TESTIFIES BEFORE JOINT I. C. C. AND STATE RY. COMMISSION

Fargo, N. D., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Earnings of railroads in Minnesota have been less than in any other part of the country, A. F. Cleveland characterized the intrastate rates in Minnesota as "very low" compared with other points of origin in the northwest and in other parts of the country. Reduction of rates on grain and grain products has cost his road $3,600,000 per annum since 1922, he said.

MUCH ARGUMENT ABOUT CHRIST AND NO IMITATION

St. Paul, Nov. 23.—(UP)—There is too much argument about Christ and not enough imitation of him, Bishop Charles Edward Locke, St. Paul, told the Methodist Men's council meeting here today.

Bishop Locke pleaded for discontinuation of the modernism versus fundamentalism controversy in his address which was the principal event of this morning's session.

"The world task of methodism," he said, "is to exemplify, teach and disseminate by precept and example the spirit of Jesus Christ."

Almost 1,000 Methodist laymen and ministers are attending the council sessions which started yesterday. Group sessions this afternoon drew even a larger total attendance.

$8,000 RADIUM, LOST 6 WEEKS, IS RECOVERED

INADVERTENTLY DROPPED INTO DRAIN AT ST. PAUL HOSPITAL

INSTRUMENT SPECIALLY DESIGNED TO FIND PRECIOUS CAPSULE

St. Paul, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—A pinhead of radium, valued at $8,000, inadvertently dropped into a drain at St. Joseph's hospital here six weeks ago, was back in its laboratory cabinet today none the worse for its spree in the city sewers.

The bit of metal, encased in a lead tube, was located late yesterday by Professor Henry A. Erickson, head of the physics department, University of Minnesota, who devised an instrument to find the precious capsule.

Ionization chamber detectors attached to electroscopes, giving the appearance of a garbage can with a meter attached, succeeded in searching out the radium after a six weeks' hunt. The "mechanical bloodhound" got the scent yesterday and had the exact location after a few hours' work.

With two employees of the city sewer department, Professor Erickson carried on a thorough search of sewers from the river to the hospital. The pellet was found near the hospital. A mark placed on the pipe from reactions of the indicator was only two inches off.

The court room has been filled with extra benches to accommodate the large crowds attending the trial.

Winnipeg, Man., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Finger prints are sending John Stanton to the gallows February 9th next year to pay the death penalty for the slaying of John Penny in Winnipeg December 19, 1922.

Penny was battered to death with a hammer. His murderer escaped and was at liberty for over thirty months. He was discovered in June of this year by finger print identification serving a short term on a prison farm in Indiana. He was brought back to Winnipeg, tried and convicted of the murder. Robbery was the motive for the crime.

Stanton is the first to be sentenced in a record-breaking murder docket at the winter assizes—10 charges of murder being listed. Three have been found guilty of manslaughter, one acquitted and others are yet to be tried.

LEWIS ASKS GOVERNMENT FOR INTERVENTION

PRESIDENT UNITED MINE WORKERS STIRS UP SOFT COAL FIELD

CHARGES SUCH OPERATORS WITH VIOLATING WAGE AGREEMENTS

New York, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Requesting in a letter to President Coolidge that the government intervene in the bituminous coal fields, John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers has involved every union coal miner in the country in a wage controversy.

The anthracite miners are already on strike and Lewis' letter brings up the matter of conditions in the bituminous fields.

Lewis charged that various producers of soft coal were violating and repudiating the Jacksonville wage agreement which continued war time wages and working conditions in the union soft coal fields of Illinois, Pennsylvania, Ohio and West Virginia for three years from April 1, 1924.

In his letter Lewis further asks the president whether, if federal intervention is denied, the miners may not believe "that their own efforts in that direction may be considered justified."

Lewis, who is in Philadelphia, refused to explain this question.

Members of the anthracite operators' conference said today that they regarded the Lewis letter as clarifying a dual situation existing from the outset of the present anthracite controversy.

KELLOGG TAKES FIRM STAND IN KAROLYI CASE

EXCLUDES HER FROM U. S. AS A DANGEROUS RADICAL

APPEAL OF HER COUNSEL TO PRES. COOLIDGE NETTLES SECRETARY OF STATE

Washington, (Nov. 23.—(UP)—Despite growing protest, Secretary of State Kellogg today stood by his decision excluding from the country as a dangerous radical Countess Karolyi, wife of Hungary's first president.

Appeal by the countess' counsel to President Coolidge to overrule Kellogg's unjust and un-American decision, made public today, angered but did not swerve the secretary. He appeared confident to friends that the president would refuse to intervene.

In appealing to the president, the Karolyi attorneys, including James F. Curtis, assistant secretary of the treasury under President Taft, said: "As you yourself said in Omaha, 'whatever tends to standardize the community to establish fixed and rigid modes of thought tends to fossilize society'."

"If Sec. Kellogg's views truly represent the American spirit, then (Oliver Cromwell, Patrick Henry and George Washington) would all have been denied admission and Carl Schurz and Louis Kossuth would have been turned back at Ellis Island."

After pointing out that the countess was permitted to enter the country last year by former Sec. Hughes and that now Kellogg declines to make public his charges against her, the letter describes her as a follower of Kossuth who was officially welcomed by the secretary of state, Daniel Webster, as a national hero.

"She is a person of high character and attainments who holds liberal but not radical, political and social views," the letter states.

St. Cloud, Minn., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Jack Lieberman, Minneapolis, pinned more than three hours under the wreckage of his light automobile at Little Rock, near here, early today stretched himself when finally extricated, brushed off his clothes and explained apologetically to his rescuers, "Must have gone to sleep."

Lieberman was driving home before sunrise. At Little Rock he lost his fight against drowsiness and woke up to find his car upturned and himself a prisoner. In three hours one car passed he said, and that without offering assistance.

A passenger on an early morning train happened to look from the window as the engineer gave Little Rock a perfunctory toot of recognition and observed Lieberman's plight. He notified St. Cloud authorities who hurried to the rescue.

Lieberman, still sleepy but unhurt, resumed his journey by rail.

CABINET TOTTERED EVER SINCE ITS RECENT RE-BIRTH

STRONG MAN TO LEAD FRANCE HAS FAILED TO APPEAR

FOREIGN MINISTER BRIAND FAVORED TO HEAD NEXT CABINET

By A. L. BRADFORD
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Nov. 23.—The Painleve cabinet, tottering ever since its rebirth a few short weeks ago, has fallen and France is in a deep quandary today as to selection of its successor.

The strong man who shall lead France out of her tangled and increasingly desperate financial situation has failed to appear so far.

Foreign Minister Briand, who is favorably regarded for his Locarno accomplishments and for his general political ability, is suggested by some as possessing the qualifications to head the next cabinet.

The cabinet resigned Sunday after the chamber, by 278 to 275, had defeated Article V of the Painleve finance project. This article foresaw a consolidation of short term national bonds, or, in lay language, a postponement of payment of about 40 milliard francs worth of these holdings which are liberally held by all ranks of the French. Earlier in the day there had been a vote favorable to the cabinet on this point, but a switch of communist votes turned the 28 majority for the cabinet on the first vote into a minority of three on the succeeding test.

Painleve took the decision dramatically. He had stood calmly awaiting the voting announcement and when President Herriot of the chamber, announced it, stalked out of the chamber with the ministers trailing him while socialists yelled "Vive la Republique" and the opposition retorted with "Vive la France."

PRES. DOUMERGUE ASKS BRIAND TO FORM CABINET

Paris, Nov. 23.—President Doumergue today called Foreign Minister Briand to the Elysee Palace and asked him to form a cabinet to replace the second Painleve cabinet, which resigned yesterday.

MUSICAL CLUB
TEA DELIGHTFUL

Table Glittered With Silver, Other Decorations in Soft Browns And Gold

MRS. JOHN CARLSON CHAIRMAN

Musical Numbers by Misses Rickard, Morrison, Kiebler And Skauge

The annual tea of the Brainerd Musical club held Saturday afternoon was unusually interesting and successful. The table glittered with silver, and set off the rest of the decorations, which were in soft browns and gold, from the basket of chrysanthemums to the very refreshments. The lunch was as good as it was pretty.

The musical numbers given by Miss Cora Rickard, accompanied by Miss Lorraine Morrison, Miss Geraldine Kiebler and Miss Mildred Skauge who so generously give of their time and art are always so much enjoyed that it is a foregone conclusion their names on a program will bring those who might otherwise have stayed at home. Those who came had a very pleasant social hour and made enough new contacts to pay them for coming out in the cold.

The committee, headed by Mrs. John Carlson, it to be thanked for their thought and effort in providing so pleasant an afternoon.

3RD VAUDEVILLE PROGRAM GIVEN

New Park Theatre, Brainerd, to Present One of the Biggest Bills Yet Offered

TUESDAY NIGHT, NOV. 24

Manager Hiller Notes Vaudeville Night is Drawing Large Attendance From Vicinity

The New Park theatre is offering its third vaudeville bill for next Tuesday night, November 24th. Manager Hiller says that this is to be the biggest bill yet offered. The picture for that night is to be "Crack O'Dawn" featuring an auto race and is filled with many thrills as only an auto race could be.

The shows given in the past have been well attended and as there are two shows in the evening—one at 7 and one at 9:15, and good seats will be available for all. People from the country and surrounding towns are becoming steady patrons, Crosby especially being well represented.

Mr. Hiller wishes to say that these vaudeville bills will continue so long as the patronage holds up.

The first bill on the program is a strong, dramatic playlet presented by Mark Linder & Co., entitled "The Criminal" and from its description, it surpasses anything of its kind ever presented in this city in the line of vaudeville. There are nearly a dozen characters in the playlet, several of whom are impersonated in a remarkable manner by Mr. Linder, and the rest by the other two members of his company. The scene is located at police headquarters, two characters being a police captain and his assistant. An old man is held on a charge of murder and an illustration of the third degree is given.

Dixie Dalsey, the "Red Pepper Stopper," impersonates a high brown character from the South with songs and piano novelty. She features a jazz cane dance in a fashion all her own.

Watkins Circus la Petite is presented by G. M. Watkins whose recent success with Mascot the human mind pony ranks Mr. Watkins as America's premier animal trainer. His act carries dogs and ponies, featuring a pony doing the Charleston, and Buckeye Boy, a beautiful greyhound.

Ed. and Marie Dale present a singing and talking comedy skit they call "Matrimony a la Carte," deriving its title through a matrimonial agency. The act is full of comedy dialog and situations.

Almond and Hazel, a richly dressed couple, dance nicely and exchange a number of up to date jokes. The girl is especially good in a Spanish dance, while the man excels in a dance performed on ice skates.

CAPTAIN FOLEY, ACCUSED BY MRS. LANSLOWNE OF ASKING FALSE TESTIMONY

Testifying in the court martial proceedings against Col. William Mitchell, formerly Assistant Chief of the Army Air Service, Mrs. Margaret Ross Lansdowne, widow of the commander of the dirigible Shenandoah, declared that Captain Paul Foley, as Judge Advocate of the court of inquiry to investigate the loss of the Shenandoah, had attempted to induce her to give false testimony before the Shenandoah court. Secretary of the Navy Wilbur granted Captain Foley's request that he be relieved as Judge Advocate of that body so that he might testify before it "to contravene the testimony given by Mrs. Lansdowne."

Prized Golf Club Lost

Atlanta, Ga.—The golf world today mourned the loss of one of its most prized and coveted cups—the Havemeyer National amateur championship trophy—destroyed in the fire that gutted the east Lake Country club Sunday. The cup had been twice won by Bobby S. Jones, the last time on the Oakmont course, near Pittsburgh.

Niagara Falls

The water that flows over Niagara has flowed from the four great lakes and the hundreds of rivers that flow into them, more than one-half of the fresh water of the world, according to one authority. The fact that evaporation and precipitation in the form of rain and snow are continually going on in the enormous areas of the Great Lakes region renders it unlikely that the Great lakes will ever be drained in this manner.

BROUGHT RELIEF AFTER 2 YEARS SUFFERING

"The makers of Tanlac will always have my warmest thanks, for I don't consider it any exaggeration to say I owe my life and present good health to Tanlac," is the striking statement of Andrew Groeschner, Bremen.

"Words simply can't express the misery I endured for 2 years from indigestion. At times gas pains would catch me around the heart and almost cut off my breath. These awful pains would last two and three hours. My nerves were all unstrung. I slept poorly and got in such a bad way that my days seemed to be shortening rapidly.

"I tried everything, but disappointment was my only reward until I began taking Tanlac. I have been taking Tanlac off and on for a year now and feel so different that there's no room for comparison. I eat good and sleep good and feel that Tanlac has given me a new lease on life."

British Honored Sons of Benedict Arnold

Very little has been written of Arnold outside of his traitorous conduct in connection with the attempted surrender of West Point to the British, says the Dearborn Independent. Through a correspondence with Major Andre, Arnold, then commanding West Point, offered to surrender to the British; and to consummate the plan Arnold and Andre met at midnight on the shore of the Hudson September 21, 1780. The capture of Andre frustrated the scheme, and Arnold fled to the British sloop of war Vulture.

The British made him brigadier general and he fought the American army at Richmond, Portsmouth and New London, Conn. In December, 1781, he sailed for England with his family, who were pensioned by the British government. He received about $31,755 for his alleged losses in deserting the Americans. Failing to get a position in the army he was forced to take up the trade of merchant. He carried on trade with the West Indies, but returned to London in 1791.

War between France and England exposed his shipping to great risks and

Arnold on one occasion was captured by a French ship, but managed to escape. The British government still refused to give him active service in the army and he turned his attention to fitting out privateers against France to recover his lost fortune, but being unsuccessful, weighed down by private debts, and despised by America and the British empire, he sank into a state of acute melancholy, and died June 14, 1801, regretting, it is said, his treason.

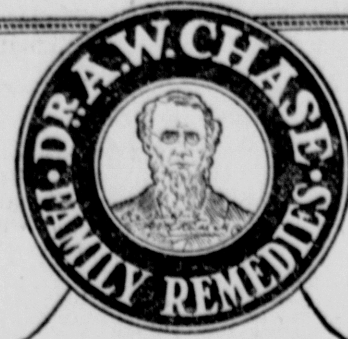

His first wife gave birth to three sons. His eldest sons received commissions in the British army; and his second son by his second marriage, inheriting his father's daring and military ability, rose to be a lieutenant general, was made aid de camp to King William IV and was created a knight. Arnold's other children held honorable positions, and one of his grandsons, Capt. William Trull Arnold, a brave fighting man, was killed in the Crimean war.

A pledge of fair dealing

The strongest pledge of friendship and fair dealing known to the early Norsemen was the simple act of one man placing his hand between the hands of another. Ruthless, terrible and cruel as the Vikings were, no man broke this pledge without forfeiting his honor and the friendship of every true man.

Today modern business forms friends in every corner of the world through the pledge of the printed word. Advertisements are pledges made especially for you . . . pledges that advertised goods you buy are exactly as claimed.

No sane business man would advertise an unworthy product. Nothing could bring ruin more quickly. For when a product is advertised, it invites the criticism of millions of people. It must make good its claims, or it forfeits the patronage of thousands.

A product that is not advertised may be worth buying. But it is little known and its merit or unworthiness lies hid in comparative security. Every product you see advertised must be worthy. It is tested daily by thousands. It is proved in the pitiless glare of publicity—pledged to you in the advertising columns regularly.

Read the advertisements to know which goods are advertised.

An advertiser's pledge can be redeemed only by your entire satisfaction

R. R. WISE

THE death of R. R. Wise removes a public spirited man, one who did much in building up Brainerd and in later years broadened his efforts to include the whole state of Minnesota. He started alone in the world, and although of frail physique, made his way to success and fortune.

In his early railroading days he became a fast telegrapher and always treasured that knowledge and we have often seen him visit a telegraph office and send a few words just to show that his wrist and fingers had not lost their wire cunning.

He surmounted difficulties that would have disheartened the average man. His record of building in Brainerd attested the fact that he believed in Brainerd, that he believed in improvements and that he wasn't afraid to put his money into this town.

As a public hearted citizen one may mention his service, gratuitously given, in many capacities and these ranged from mayor to school board and later in publicity work for Northern Minnesota and then for the state at large.

He was a president of and assisted to found the Northern Minnesota Development Association and whenever it needed stimulus, he was at hand with money and other aid. He freely gave of his time to this association.

He assisted to gain many conventions for Brainerd. He was one of the founders of the 10,000 Lakes of Minnesota Association and three times its president. He brought rare business knowledge to this association and put it on a secure foundation. He traveled freely about the United States, donating time, money and his services to tell the world about our lakes, our summer resorts, our wonderful recreational facilities.

At the last large meeting of the Chamber of Commerce he outlined the work of this association. His wife died about three years ago and her loss was keenly felt by him. During her life she was his constant companion and aid and he sought her advice on many questions.

Death came to him peacefully, the message stating "he had slept away."

CHANGING TELEPHONE RATES

WE NOTE the order served on the city clerk in which the Northwestern Bell Telephone company asks to change and increase its rates for telephone service at the Brainerd Exchange. As the hearing is to be held at the court house in Brainerd on December 1, and conducted by the State Railroad and Warehouse Commission, all parties affected will no doubt be given the opportunity to be heard.

The papers filed with our city clerk simply convey the information regarding the increases sought and affects business, residence and rural telephone rates. The biggest increase sought is in the individual business line, the new rate being $4.75 and the present old rate $3.50. A discount of 25 cents is allowed on all increased rates under conditions named.

The order states no reason why the increase in rates is sought, but that undoubtedly will have to be brought out at the hearing in order to convince the state railroad and warehouse commission that such an increase is necessary for the proper conduct of telephone business in Brainerd.

Some seven months ago THE DISPATCH published an article from the local telephone company which gave a forecast that increased rates were due in Brainerd, but stated no figures. It was claimed that in the past two years in Brainerd the earnings here were less than two per cent annually when they should have been at least six per cent. The company also claimed that material, labor and all other things entering into the telephone business had increased in costs.

SIMPLE LANGUAGE IS MOST EFFECTIVE

SIMPLE language is the most effective and the reason is clearly stated in a copyrighted article by Associated Editors, Inc., wherein they refer to the fact that simple language increases the sales from your advertisements.

"In every advertisement the language should be simple and clear. Dignified or infrequently used words and phrases should be avoided.

"Horse" is much better than 'equestrian quadruped.' 'Eat' is preferable to 'masticate.' Simple, colloquial English is most easily understood by the largest number of readers.

"The text of an ad should be clear and simple enough so that the very ignorant can understand it. If the uneducated can understand the ad, you may be sure the more intelligent can, and then 100 per cent of your readers get the benefit of the advertisement. If only the educated can understand it, the number of readers who can benefit from your ad is greatly reduced and the sales from your ad are simultaneously reduced."

THE SINGLE STREET LIGHT

WARD HARRISON, director of illuminating engineering for the General Electric Co., favors a single street light.

He told St. Paul people that the cluster lights used on some of St. Paul's downtown streets are inadequate and should be supplanted by single lights of the same power at much less cost and upkeep.

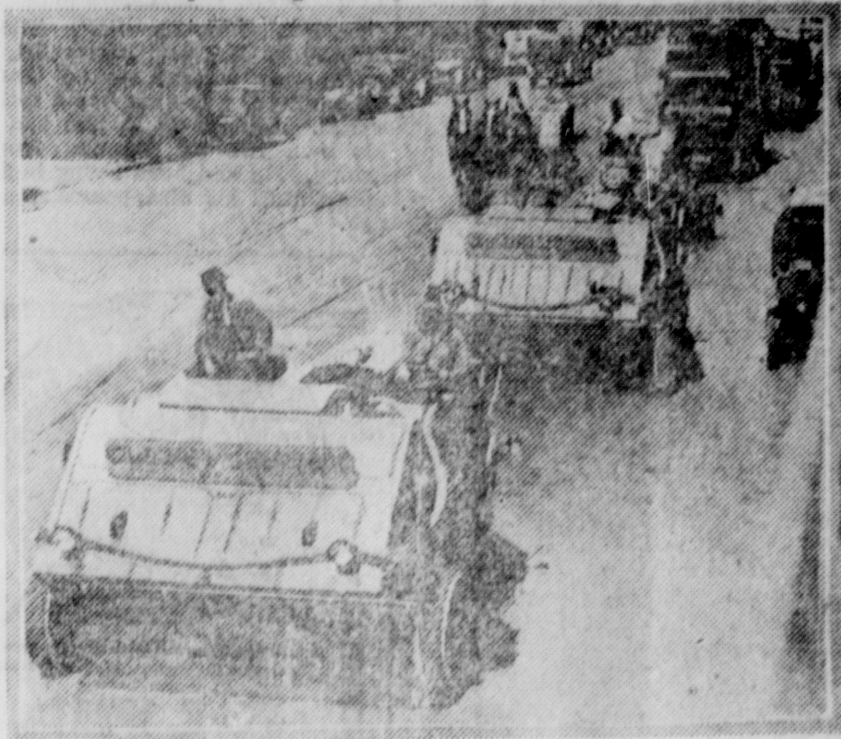

So Brainerd, with its single lights illuminating streets, is in the very forefront of municipal progress.

OLD Bob Fitzsimmons was a regular glutton for championships. From 1899 to 1907 he held three world's championships at the same time, middle, light-heavy and heavyweight. No man before or since has achieved such a record.

LEAVES of gold and nickel have been made by a German scientist so thin that it requires 2,500,000 of them to measure an inch in thickness. That man would make a fortune slicing ham sandwiches.

Beef Bones for Ivory

There is a demand continually at the packing houses of Chicago for all the shin bones of slaughtered beefs. Chinese merchants take all they can secure, shipping them to China, where they are used in making mah-jongg sets. The workmen there are able to polish them so they appear quite as dignified as real ivory. Many shin bone sets were sold to American buyers.—Ohio State Journal.

Name Not a Guarantee

Do not be misled by the name on a violin, as it frequently happens that it is not the maker's name. If it is a well-known violin maker's name, it implies that the instrument is a model of his, made in the same style, but the name is not a guarantee that the fiddle is one of his own make.

RHINELANDER COUNSEL IN A DEFIANT SPIRIT

ALICE JONES "DOES HIS WORST"

2 LETTERS WRITTEN BY PLAIN-
TIFF MAY REVEAL CHARAC-
TER IN NEW LIGHT

By PAUL W. WHITE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 23.—
Counsel for Leonard Kip Rhinelander today defied Lee Parsons Davis, attorney for the former Alice Jones, to "do his worst" in the annulment suit brought by the young aristocrat.

As soon as Isaac N. Mills, chief counsel for Rhinelander, had issued the def. Davis was granted an ad-jourment of a few minutes on the ground that he wished to decide whether to move that a mistrial be declared.

Rhinelander is asking annulment

of his marriage on the grounds that Alice, the daughter of a negro taxi driver, deceived him as to her color.
The challenge to "do your worst" is believed to refer to two letters written by Rhinelander to Alice which are reported to reveal the character of Rhinelander in a new light.

At the end of the five minutes
Davis moved for a mistrial on the grounds that the statement by Mills in the presence of the jury was prejudicial to the defendant's case. The motion was denied and the trial proceeded with Rhinelander returning to the witness stand for cross examination.

Davis began the cross examination by asking more questions regarding Rhinelander's stay with his sweetheart at the Hotel Marie Antoinette in New York two years before they were married.

A brief adjournment was taken during which Justice Morschauser ordered out of the court all women, warning them that the testimony was likely to be shocking.

UNPRINTABLE LETTER WAS INTRODUCED

White Plains, N. Y., Nov. 23.—In the jury room of the Westchester county supreme court today Alice Jones Rhinelander undressed and with her body from the waist up and her lower limbs exposed was viewed by the jury trying her husband's suit for annulment.

Leonard Kip Rhinelander, who charges that his wife deceived him as to her color, Justice Morschauser, stenographers and opposing counsel, accompanied the girl, the daughter of a negro cab man, into the jury room.

Proceeding this astounding development two letters written by Leonard to Alice were read in court.
They described minutely pre-marital intimacies and Lee Parsons Davis, the defendant's counsel, hoped to prove by the color of her body that young Rhinelander could not but have suspected that she had negro blood in her veins.

Before the ugly intimacies of the mesalliance were read, Supreme Court Justice Morschauser ordered all women from his court. Mrs.
Rhinelander and her mother withdrew with the others, leaving two newspaper women the sole representatives of their sex within the court room.

The first letter read was sent from the Cliff House, San Francisco, on July 11, 1922, after Leonard and Alice had stayed for two periods as man and wife at a New York hotel.

The epistle was affectionately couched. Leonard regretted that this would be the last letter Alice would receive for "the Lord knows when." He told her he would write her every day while on the steamer bound for Honolulu, which he was to take the next day.

with a yell of, 'I can beat it!' he raced ahead at full speed. The funny part—"

"Good gosh!" interrupted the proprietor of the emporium, "you don't call a bunch of young folks getting fore all to pieces 'funny,' do you?"

"Nope! I was about to say that the funny part was that 'e did beat it to be crossing. Just as he 'lowed he could." Kansas City Star.

A recent cloudburst on the land of of ore assaying $80 to the ton. He was soon on his way to the smelter

MICHIGAN STRONGEST CONFERENCE TEAM

MINNESOTA FALLS TO SEVENTH PLACE IN LIST

NORTHWESTERN AND WISCONSIN STAND NEXT TO MICHIGAN

SOME DOPESTERS CLAIM NORTHWESTERN SHOULD RANK WITH MICHIGAN

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Out of a season of upsets and queer statistics, Michigan emerges as the strongest team in the Big Ten football conference and has the best claim to a title.

Northwestern and Wisconsin finished their seasons with the next best records and some of the dopesters claim Northwestern has an equal claim with Michigan for the championship, this being based on the fact that Northwestern lost only one game and gave Michigan its only defeat.

On the basis of figures, however, Michigan stands pre-eminent with five victories and one defeat for a percentage of 83.3. Northwestern and Wisconsin each won three and lost one for a percentage of 75 but the Badgers played one more game and obtained a tie in that encounter.

Never before has this situation arisen in the Big Ten. On other occasions the leading team may have lost one game but that defeat has not been at the hands of the second best team. Northwestern partisans will argue that Michigan can't be given an edge on the Wildcats since Northwestern beat Michigan, but Wolverine enthusiasts will reply that Michigan played a tougher and longer schedule and piled up a total score of 227 against opponents' 3.

About the only answer to the puzzle is the list of accomplishments, from which anybody can pick his own champion. The standing follows:

Team	W.	L.	T.	Pct.
Michigan	5	1	0	.833
Northwestern	3	1	0	.750
Wisconsin	3	1	1	.750
Illinois	2	2	0	.500
Iowa	2	2	0	.500
Chicago	2	2	1	.500
Minnesota	1	1	1	.500
Ohio	1	3	1	.250
Indiana	0	3	1	.000
Purdue	0	3	1	.000

As for individual performances, Red Grange continued the leading player of the conference. His total yardage far surpassed the greatest efforts of any other Big Ten athlete although his biggest field day was in the intersectional game with Pennsylvania.

Benny Friedman, Michigan's great back, was the highest point scorer with a total of 52, which were made by four touchdowns, two field goals, and 22 points after touchdowns. Nick Kutsch of Iowa was second with 49 points although he didn't score a point in the last month of the season, being kept on the sidelines most of the time. Oosterbaan of Michigan scored 48 points, Almqvist of Minnesota 45, and Grange 36. Molenda of Michigan tied Grange at that figure.

SPORT TABLOIDS

Dartmouth Schedule

Hanover, N. H. — Dartmouth doesn't intend to rest on this year's football laurels. On successive Saturdays in 1926, the Big Green team will encounter Yale, Harvard, Brown, Boston university and Cornell, according to the schedule announced yesterday.

College Cross Country Runners

New York.—College cross country runners of the east will engage in the last race of the season today over the Van Cortlandt park course. Two hundred representatives of 22 colleges are entered with Syracuse the favorite.

To Meet World's Best

Wanda Danley, eighteen-year-old Oakland (Cal.) girl, who won the Diamond Jubilee track event in San Francisco, defeating Helen Filkey of Chicago, world's champion woman sprinter, is ambitious to win that title. Wanda has won everything in which she has competed so far.

SEARLE, HAWAIIAN STAR, HAS TOUCHDOWN TOTAL OF 18 IN FIRST 6 GAMES.

Theodore ("Pump") Searle, fullback of the University of Hawaii team, had set a great individual scoring record at the time this photograph was taken early in November. In the first six games of the season he had scored 18 touchdowns and made a total of 110 points.

THANKSGIVING GAMES IN SOUTH

Atlanta, Ga., Nov. 23.—(UP)—Southern conference teams prepared for Thanksgiving day contests, one of which may decide the season's winner.

Alabama's game with the rejuvenated Georgia team heads the bill and if the Crimson tide maintains its unbroken string of victories she may again be adjudged the Southern conference champion.

Alabama has not been scored upon this season and has piled up 147 points in the conference.

4 "BIG GAMES" TO BE PLAYED IN EAST

New York, Nov. 23.—(UP)—Four "big games" but none affecting the mythical eastern football championship remain to be played along the Atlantic seaboard before the curtain is rung down on the gridiron season.

Thanksgiving day will see those ancient rivals, Pennsylvania and Cornell do battle in Philadelphia. Other prominent turkey day engagements are the Columbia-Syracuse and Colgate-Brown melees.

On Saturday the Army and Navy elevens will engage at the Polo grounds in their annual hostilities.

RED GRANGE NOW PROFESSIONAL IN GRID GAMES

WILL PLAY WITH CHICAGO BEARS UNTIL END OF THEIR SEASON

SUPPOSED TO GET $2,000 EACH GAME, AND PERCENTAGE OF GATE

By EDWARD C. DERR
United Press Staff Correspondent

Chicago, Nov. 23.—Red Grange donned his business suit today—a head gear, shoulder pads, a jersey, breeches, socks and cleated shoes—and started his professional career in search of gold over chalk marked football fields.

The cheers of college football crowds still ringing in his ears, Red kept right on playing football, which he says, "is that field in which I have been most useful." He has signed a contract to play professional football with the Chicago Bears until the end of their season and then will go on a barnstorming tour with a team he is organizing himself.

Today Red got into his suit and went through signal drill with the Bears, acquainting himself with their style of play, and then was to make one more trip to Champaign where he will attend the annual Illinois football banquet tonight and receive his "T"—symbolic of his last year of collegiate football.

Red definitely ended his amateur career when he met his new manager, C. C. Pyle, in a downtown hotel yesterday and put his signature on a contract to play with the Bears.

The definite terms of the contract were not announced but it is understood he is to get $2,000 for each game in which he plays and a percentage of the gate receipts that will bring his income approximately $20,000 every time he plays.

Pyle, it is understood will get 25 per cent of all Grange's earnings.

Red's opening game as a professional will be played at Cubs park Thanksgiving day when his team meets the Chicago Cardinals. Next Sunday the Bears will play the Columbus Tigers at Cubs park. Then the east will get a chance to see Grange in action. His team will meet the Philadelphia Yellowjackets at Philadelphia on December 5 and the New York Giants at New York on December 6. The Bears will close the season in Chicago, December 13, meeting the New York Giants.

Then Red will take his own team which he is starting now to organize, to Miami, Fla., to meet Tim Callahan's team on Christmas day.

From there Red's team will go to Tampa, where they will meet another All-Star team on New Year's day. If games can be arranged the team will then hop out to the Pacific coast for several appearances.

After that Red will go into the movies if a satisfactory contract can be signed.

In announcing his new contract, Grange said he had given every atom of strength he had for the University of Illinois and felt he had "discharged in part" his obligations to his alma mater.

"There remains undischarged, however, my obligations to my father," he said. "Possessed of a scant supply of this world's goods he has given me an opportunity for an education at a great sacrifice. It is to keep the home fires burning that I am turning to professional football."

Sporting Squibs

A permanent home for football coaches will be built by Cornell at Ithaca, N. Y.

It is reported that Jack Dempsey, upon his retirement from the ring, will go into the brokerage business.

Stanley (Bucky) Harris, manager of the Washington Americans, paid an income tax of $2,778.57 last year.

Every article of football attire of the University of Pennsylvania squad is specially fitted for each player.

Notre Dame, in South Bend, Ind.

Pensacola voters authorized a $100,000 18-hole golf course at the Osceola club. It will be a boon to the sport already popular along the Florida coast.

Dan O'Leary, the veteran pedestrian, now in his eighty-fifth year, has covered a total of 282,000 miles on foot during his career as an exponent of walking.

Golf players in Williamstown, Mass., are carrying shotguns to protect themselves from crows, which are stealing their golf balls. Every time you wing a crow it counts $5 a birdie.

Tokuka Moriwake has the distinction of being the first Japanese woman tennis player to participate in an American tournament. She recently competed in a meet in southern California.

According to a writer, football crowds more action into five minutes than any other game. And in addition to that, it is a certainty that a chrysanthemum crowds the most flower into a buttonhole.

R. R. WISE HAS PASSED AWAY

Well Known Citizen of Brainerd Succumbed to Heart Trouble Sunday Afternoon

AT SHAKOPEE SANATORIUM

Owened Large Hotel And Realty Interests in Brainerd And Fargo, N. D.

R. R. Wise, age about 74, died at Shakopee hospital on Sunday afternoon at Mudeura sanatorium, where he had gone annually to take the baths. He is believed to have succumbed to heart trouble.

Mr. Wise left here Thursday afternoon for the twin cities, where he was met by his nephew, R. R. Gould. They spent a couple of days there and Mr. Wise decided to go to Shakopee for a few treatments. Mr. Gould accompanied him to Shakopee, stayed with him for his first treatment and returned home Saturday night. Sunday evening about 7 o'clock, Mrs. Darwin C. Gray, a niece of Mr. Wise received a telegram from Shakopee advising her, "Mr. Wise, your uncle, slept away this afternoon."

He was born in New York state where he began his early life as a railroad telegrapher, achieving much depot experience and becoming a very fast operator. He later removed to Minnewaukan, N. D., where he operated a hotel. This hotel not being a paying proposition and Brainerd at this time, about 1882, being without hotel accommodations, the Northern Pacific Railway Company induced Mr. Wise to tear down his hotel there and remove the same to this city, they offering to move it here on their railroad almost free gratis. In the dead of winter, Mr. Wise tore down his hotel at Minnewaukan, marked every board, shipped it to Brainerd, brick veneered it, and commenced operating it under the name of "Arlington Hotel." He conducted this hotel for many years, after which he built the Ransford block and operated the Ransford hotel therein. At the time he operated the Arlington hotel, he was conducting railway eating houses at Hinckley, Staples, Carleton and Fargo at which places he did an enormous business.

Mr. Wise was a large holder of real estate in this city, as well as other places. He owns the Ransford hotel, Ransford Annex, Iron Exchange building, National hotel building, Anna block, Ohio block, 10,000 Lakes garage building, Service Motor Company building in this city and the Waldorf hotel in Fargo, N. D. He also owns the Wise ranch on North Long lake, which is composed of about 3,000 acres, together with a large amount of mining and other lands.

He was a former mayor of Brainerd, former president of the school board, former president of Brainerd Chamber of Commerce, former president of the Northern Minnesota Development association, and president three terms of the 10,000 Lakes of Minnesota association.

As such executive he gave his most untiring energies and time to the advertising of Minnesota's resources as a summer resort playground, speaking and traveling throughout the United States. He was one of the founders of this association. He was a member of the following Masonic orders: Crescent Lodge No. 207 of Staples; Braithair Chapter No. 42 Ascalon Shrine of St. Paul. He also belonged to the Elks Brainerd Lodge No. 615.

Mr. Wise's wife preceded him in death a few years ago. The surviving relatives in this city are a niece, Mrs. Darwin C. Gray and nephew, R. R. Gould. There are also distant relatives whose names could not be learned at this time.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed at this time owing to the absence of Mr. Gould, but they will be announced later.

The body of Mr. Wise is expected in Brainerd tonight, being accompanied from the twin cities by an escort of Knights Templar. The funeral, it has been ascertained, will be held under Ascalon Commandery auspices. The body will be brought to room 26, of the Ransford hotel.

Episcopal Guild

The St. Paul's Episcopal Guild will hold a special meeting tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Mrs. R. A. Beise.

IN MUNICIPAL COURT

John And E. R. Lasher Given Preliminary Hearing on Liquor Charge

Saturday afternoon, at 4:30 John and E. R. Lasher were given a preliminary hearing before Judge S. F. Alderman in municipal court. They were charged with transporting intoxicating liquor upon a public highway. They were bound over to the district court and bonds set at $500.

Thorvald Hanson and Elmer Solem, both from North Dakota and driving a Star car and the Lashers driving a Ford touring car collided about one-half mile this side of the Crow Wing-Cass county line last Friday night. Both cars were quite badly damaged, the Ford touring car turning turtle. The Lashers called for help and the two Dakota men helped them out from under their car. When the men crawled out from under the car, according to testimony given at the hearing, they carried a jug which they said was a water jug which they threw in a ditch along with a glass jug. The sheriff went out later on and found the Ford touring car still upside down and also found the stone jug and a glass jug, it is alleged, both of which, he said, were found to contain moonshine whiskey. They also found a sack containing deer meat. The men were arrested early Saturday morning at their home near the village of Pillager.

They will be tried Tuesday morning, November 24th, at 10 o'clock on the charge of having deer meat in their possession in a closed season.

In municipal court this morning Alfred Lyon plead guilty to the charge of transporting intoxicating liquor, to-wit: one gallon moonshine whiskey along Laurel street in this city, on Saturday, November 21st. He was fined $100 or 60 days in jail by Judge S. F. Alderman.

"THE LAST WORD" IS GIVEN TONIGHT

Has Its Premiere at the Local High School Auditorium

Mrs. Sumner T. McKnight, One of Authors, to be Present

Carlton Miles is considered one of the best dramatists in the country and his favorable opinion on "The Last Word" means much. Brainerd gives the first presentation of the play and one of the co-authors, Mrs. Sumner McKnight will be here to witness its production. The Dispatch voices the need of a large attendance tonight. A good "first night" means much in the dramatic world.

The following is a condensed account of the write-up by Carlton Miles, in Sunday's Minneapolis Journal, of "The Last Word," which will have its premiere tonight at the high school auditorium:

"Three Minneapolis women have written an amusing, satiric play in which male dominance is defeated by gentle female persistence. The authors—Mrs. Sumner T. McKnight, Mrs. R. T. Hargreaves and Mrs. R. C. Allison—disclaim any serious endeavor in the three-scene comedy, which they fittingly call "The Last Word" and which is to be given at the Metropolitan theatre on the evening of December 5, for the League of Women Voters. As we read this witty little play, however, it seemed to us the authors have made out a fairly strong case for their side in this humorous battle of the sexes, the more so because propaganda has been carefully excised. The title is not without significance.

Written in the pattern of "Milestones" or "Secrets" the play is divided into periods of time. Each of the scenes contains a proposal, a difference of opinion and an apparent acquiescence on the part of the girl to the wishes of her betrothed. To quote more would be to reveal too much.

EXAMINATION RENEWED

Post Office Department Desires Senior Stenographer And Typist in Field Service

Because of the very limited and insufficient eligible registers obtained from the post office senior stenographer and typist examination held in this district on October 27th, and as the commission has also a similar departmental examination pending to close the 28th instant, the commission directs that another examination for both senior stenographer and senior typist be also held for the field service in this district at the same time.

However, as the closing date for the departmental examination is the 28th, it will be possible under the exceptional circumstances to extend the closing date for the field examination to November 30th.

In view of the short time and the impossibility in many cases of obtaining and filing applications, the commission will accept in lieu of applications, letters from any persons stating their wish to enter the examination subject to their filing their applications as soon afterwards as possible, but before the examination date which will probably be December 8th. All such letters stating desire or intention to enter the examination should be addressed to: Eighth District Secretary, Post Office building, St. Paul, Minn., and must be received there by November 30th to be followed by the applications before December 8th.

For application blanks and any further information about this or other examinations inquire of the local secretary at the post office.

For no reason whatever the speaker broke into loud laughter; then, to further relieve his bubbling joyousness, he began to hum a song. As he worked his song grew louder, until its words were audible to the girl in the next tent.

"Oh, la voix du beau Nord qui m'appelle."

Pour venir avec lui le jour, Et désormais toute peine cruelle Fuira devant mon chant d'amour. D'amour, d'amour."

"Oh, the voice of the North is calling me."

To join in the praise of the day, So whatever the fate that's befalling me, I'll sing every sorrow away. Away, away."

The Yukon stove was red-hot now, and Rouletta Kirby's tent was warm. She seated herself before a homely little dresser fashioned from two candle-boxes, and began to arrange her hair. Curiously she examined the comb and brush. They were, or had been, 'Poleon's; so was the pocket-mirror hanging by a safety-pin to the canvas wall above. Rouletta recalled with a smile the flourish of pride with which he had presented to her this ludicrous bureau and its fittings. Was there ever such a fellow as this Doret? Was there ever a heart so big, so kind? A stranger, it seemed to the girl that she had known him always. There had been days—days interminable—when he had seemed to be some dream figure; an indistinct, unreal being at once familiar and unfamiliar, friendly and forbidding; then other days during which he had gradually assumed substance and actuality and during which she had come to know him. Following her return to sanity, Rouletta had experienced periods of uncertainty and of terror, then hours of embarrassment, the mere memory of which caused her to shrink and to hide her head. Those were times of which, even yet, she could not bear to think. Hers had been a slow recovery and a painful, nay a tragic, awakening, but, as she had gained the strength and the ability to understand and to suffer, 'Poleon with a tact and a thoughtfulness unexpected in one of his sort, had dropped the character of nurse and assumed the role of friend and protector. That had been Rouletta's most difficult ordeal, the most trying time for both of them, in fact, not one man in ten thousand could have carried off such an awkward situation at a cost so low to a woman's feelings. It was, of course, the very awkwardness of that situation, together with 'Poleon's calm, courageous method of facing it, that had given his patient the strength to meet him half-way and that had made her convalescence anything less than a torture.

And the manner in which he had allowed her to learn the truth about herself—bit by bit as her resistance grew—his sympathy, his repression, his support! He had to know just how far to go; he had spared her every possible heartache, he had never permitted her to suffer a moment of trepidation as to herself. No, her first conscious feeling, now that she recalled it, had been one of implicit unreasoning faith in him. That confidence had increased with every hour; dismay, despair, the wish to die had given place to resignation, then to hope, and now to a brave self-confidence. Rouletta knew that her deliverance had been miraculous and that this man, this total stranger, out of the goodness of his heart, had given her back her life. She never ceased pondering over it.

She was now sitting motionless, comb and brush in hand, when 'Poleon came into the tent for a second time and aroused her from her abstraction. She hastily completed her toilette, and was sitting curled up on her bed when the aroma of boiling coffee and the sound of frying steak brought her to her feet. With a noisy clatter she enthusiastically arranged the breakfast dishes.

"How wonderful it is to have an appetite in the morning!" said she; then: "This is the last time you're going to cook. You may chop the wood and build the fires, but I shall attend to the rest. I'm quite able."

"Bien!" The pilot smiled his agreement. "Everybody mus' work to be happy—even dose dog. W'at you tink? Dey loaf so long dey begin fight, jus' lak people." He chuckled. "Pretty queeck we hitch her up de sled an' go fly to Dyea. You gon' henjoy dat, ma saeur. Mebbe we meet dose cheeckako' com'in' an' dey holler: 'Hollo, Frenchy! How's 'ting in Dawson?' an' we say: 'Pouf! We don care 'bout Dawson; We gon' home'."

"Home!" Rouletta paused momentarily in her task. "Sure! Now—voilà! Breakfast she serve in de baggage car." With a flourish he poured the coffee, saying, "Let's see if you so hongry lak you pretend, or if I'm gon' keep you in bed some more."

Rouletta's appetite was all—yes, more—than she had declared it to be. The liberality with which she helped herself to oatmeal, her lavish use of the sugar- spoon, and her determined attack upon the can of "Carnation" satisfied any lingering doubts in Doret's mind. Her predatory interest in the appetizing contents of the frying-pan—she eyed it with the greedy hopefulness of a healthy urchin—also was eloquent of a complete recovery and brought a thrill of pride to her benefactor. "Gosh! I mak' bad nurse for hospital," he grinned. "You eat him out of house an' lot." He finished his meal, then looked on until Rouletta leaned back with regretful satisfaction; thereupon he broke out: "Wal, I got more s'prise for you."

"Black Cyclone" Is Film Novelty Marvelously Entertaining at Lyceum "Black Cyclone" is a picture that is causing a lot of talk—in fact, yesterday the Lyceum theatre was buzzing with appreciative comment during and after the showing of this astounding horse drama, in which Hal Roach features his magnificent wild stallion, Rex. When they weren't marveling over the intelligence of the horse, they were laughing over its several delightful humorous incidents, and oh-ing and ah-ing over its beautiful scenery and splendid photography, and excited over its many thrills.

It remains at the Lyceum tonight only and is enthusiastically recommended to all.

La Rocque, Dorothy Gish, Torrence, Hackathorne Featured in "Night Life of New York"

"Night Life of New York," the new Allan Dwan-Paramount production, which comes to the Lyceum theatre on Tuesday to remain for two days, is based on an original story of metropolitan jazz and romance by Edgar Selwyn, the noted playwright and producer of stage plays. Rod La Rocque, Dorothy Gish, Ernest Torrence and George Hackathorne have featured roles in the cast.

From then on the fun and thrills come fast.

Early Landscape Gardening

The ancients practiced landscape gardening, but little is known about the styles in vogue among the different peoples. From the early times of the Christian era to the Thirteenth century the art was mainly practiced in the adornment of walled gardens connected with castles or convents. Leonardo was celebrated French landscape gardener of the Seventeenth century.

URGENT SELLING ON WALL ST.

New York, Nov. 23.—Urgent selling again broke out late this afternoon after a good effort had been made to rally the market in the earlier hours. Speculative sentiment was still under the influence of apprehension over the possibility in the local rediscunt rate and this uncertainty brought large offerings of the principal industrial stocks whenever they showed a disposition to rally.

Another factor which prevented the development of a sustained rebound was the substantial amount of stock in impaired accounts awaiting liquidation on any show of strength. While this progress of correction was in progress constructive interests displayed a tendency to allow the market to take care of itself with the result that Steel, General Motors, Dupont, Chrysler and other leaders of the preceding advances were forced into new low ground on the reaction.

PICKING OUT ORIGIN OF FAMOUS PHRASES

Many, Thought New, Really Are Centuries Old.

"Why, it's just a bundle of quotations." So, rather disgustedly, a man, who had just seen "Hamlet" for the first time, summed up the play.

Other people, a little better informed, may murmur "Shakespeare" when a wise old saw is quoted. But there are many proverbs and phrases that are not so easily tracked down. Sometimes it has never occurred to us to wonder about their origin; sometimes we think we know who said or wrote them first, and are quite wrong.

One of the best examples of this is the great phrase, "Government of the people, by the people, and for the people." In the minds of many people it is identified with Lord Randolph Churchill and the Primrose league. Others, better informed, know that Lincoln used it at Gettysburg in 1863, and that it became a rallying cry for the North during the Civil war.

Seventy years before Lincoln spoke at Gettysburg, however, almost the same phrase had been used by Robespierre. And over four hundred years before that John Wyclif wrote in his preface to the first English translation of the Bible: "The Bible is for the government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

Then there is the phrase inscribed on Keats' tombstone in Rome: "Here lies one whose name was writ in water." Most people think that the phrase is Keats' own, but it is really part of an old Arab proverb.

The more we go into this question of the origin of famous phrases and sayings the more fascinating we find it. And we get some amazing results. The ancients, we discover, were at times almost disconcertingly modern.

Who was it who first said "You have the ball at your feet"? This metaphor which conjures up a vision of the football field, is far older than football. Tacitus tells us that Agricola used these words in a speech to his soldiers before a battle with the Caledonians.

The great Latin historian also reports a speech made by one of the Caledonian chiefs to his soldiers. In this occurs another very familiar phrase: "Where they make a desert they call it peace." "The terrors of the unknown loom large," is another proverb we find in the "Agricola" of Tacitus, and in the "Germania" of Tacitus, and in the "Germania" of Tacitus, and in the "Germania" of Tacitus.

Many a fine phrase, now so worn by usage that it is regarded as "hackneyed" is to be found in Chaucer. "He was as fresh as is the month of May" occurs in the prologue to the "Canterbury Tales." "To make virtue of necessity," and "The god of love, a benedict, how mighty and how great a lord is he!" in "The Knight's Tale." "Brown as a berry" and "Proud as a peacock" are two everyday similes we get from the same source.

Who was it that first coined the expressive phrase, "stark, staring mad"? It occurs in Rabelais' "Gargantua and Pantagruel," where it is coupled with "at his wit's end," but it is possible that it has been used by some earlier writer. The worst of tracking down quotations is that there is usually someone else who can go still further back than you can. "Short and sweet," and "as plain as a nose in a man's face," are also to be found in Rabelais.

The Climber

Prince Urey (George) Troubetzkoy said in an interview in New York:

"In Europe they like to keep a man in his place, while over here you like to see a man rise—founding to errand boy, errand boy to manager, manager to millionaire and so forth."

"But in Europe! An English war veteran came from a war veterans' reunion the other night and said to his wife with a sneer:

"I believe in push and ambition and all that there, but when Sergeant Todd with his peg leg takes to carrying a cane instead of a crutch—well, it looks to me as if he was trying to climb out of the station what divine providence sunk him into."

Working in Stucco

Stucco work was known to the ancients and was much prized by them, particularly by the Romans who excelled in it. It was revived by D'Udine some time the year 1550; and in Italy, France and England in the Eighteenth century.
